BRITISH TROOPS RAID NAZI COAST

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—British naval and military raiders, supported by Royal Air Force squadrons, were reported today actually to have made landings on the German-occupied coast facing the British Isles and to have clashed with Nazi troops.

GOING HOME—Passing German motorized units heading for France, war-weary Belgian refugees plod along . . . going back to the farms and villages they were forced to flee. As a result of King Leopold's surrender, their country has now returned to some semblance of peace.

Apparently the sorties were aimed at disconcerting the German front and at obtaining first-hand information from the Germans on preparations for the assault on the British Isles. Officials ascribed the latter objective to the raiders.

"Landings were effected at a number of points and contact made with German troops," the ministry of information said.

"Casualties were inflicted and some enemy dead fell into our hands. Much useful information was obtained. Our forces suffered no casualties."

These thrusts into the German camp—the precise spots were not given—were made while British and German forces clashed in the expanding struggle in the skies which is seen as a prelude to the actual Battle of Britain.

AIR WAR CONTINUES

Official sources, besieged with requests for some explanation of the landings, refused further to identify the raiders or even hint in what country they had landed.

The aerial conflict brought another onslaught on the British Isles today and the British reports of a victory in a battle of planes and bombardment of German-ocupied air bases in Norway and the Netherlands.

The British Press Ass'n described the landings on the continental coast as "a new phase of aggressive action" by the British.

Scotland bore the brunt of Germany's midnight-to-dawn attack in eight days. At least four English and Scottish civilians were killed and at least five of the raiders shot down. The attack covered a wide area of England, Scotland and Wales.

The ministry of home security announced the four deaths and injury to 13 persons. Previous unofficial reports had indicated there were six fatalities.

"No serious damage was caused," said the home ministry.

BRITISH LOSE NO PLANES

The air ministry announced that three planes of a "much larger" German formation of 17 Messerschmitt fighting planes were shot down by a British patrol yesterday

British Dynamite Hongkong Bridges

HONGKONG, June 26 (AP)—Bridges spanning the Shumchun river, forming a part of the Chinese frontier of this British Crown colony, were dynamited today by the British military in an action described as "purely precautionary and defensive."

The British measures were taken shortly after the Japanese army in South China anounced that Japanese forces had reached Lungchow, Kwangsi province town near the French Indo-China border.

An authorized British statement declared there was no cause for alarm and expressed the belief that the presence of Japanese troops across the border was for the avowed purpose of mopping up guerillas and closing the highway leading west from Mirs bay, north of Hongkong.

While rumors spread that the Japanese might be planning to blockade Hongkong to compel Britain to shut the Burma route to China, the Japanese South China command issued a statement that on June 17 the Japanese started a "tactical operation in the direction of the (French) Indo-China border to intercept Chinese supply routes."

As Britain showed no concern for the defenses of her colony here it appeared that the Indo-China

ITALIANS SEIZE FRENCH SEAPORT

ROME, June 26 (AP)—Italian occupation of a small Alpine area in France already conquered by Fascist forces, use of the French port of Jibuti in East Africa and broad demilitarized zones to separate Italians and French in Europe and Africa are principal conditions imposed by the French-Italian armistice.

The terms, announced last night, call for demilitarization of the coastal territory of French Somaliland and give Italy the right to use the French section of the Jibuti-Addis Ababa railway, only rail outlet of Italian East Africa.

For the duration of war between Italy and the British Empire, France also must demilitarize her Mediterranean naval base.

No mention was made of Nice and Savoy in France or French Corsica—territories Italians long have been desiring.

As in the French-German terms, the agreement stipulates that the French fleet be collected at French ports and that hostilities cease in all French possessions and mandated territories as well as in Continental France. Some units of the fleet are to be assigned to protect French Colonial interests.

NEW FRENCH LINE

The Italians joined Germany in assurances that the fleet would not be used against Britain and added a promise that at conclusion of peace Italy "does not intend to lay claim to the French fleet."

JAPAN IS CONCERNED OVER MISSION OF PACIFIC FLEET

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Secrecy thrown about the sudden departure of the main United States fleet from Hawaii heightened uncertainty today over official intentions toward Japanese moves in the Far East.

Japan meanwhile was reported preparing a sweeping pronouncement that would be tantamount to an oriental Monroe Doctrine. The Tokyo newspaper Asahi said that the proclamation would warn all powers against interference of any kind in all territories in East Asia.

Both White House and State Department turned aside questions about the fleet with cryptic remarks that they had no news. Other sources were equally noncommittal.

Undetermined was whether the big battle force was steaming toward the United States mainland for South American waters, or farther out toward the Orient.

Navy fliers in bidding their families goodbye at Honolulu intimated they were going to the Panama Canal.

Some diplomatic quarters, however, found it difficult to reconcile withdrawal of the fleet with the repeated insistence of the government on maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific.

Others saw the possibility that western hemisphere defense had become so urgent that the administration had decided upon a large naval demonstration in South American waters. Two American warships are there already and a third has received orders to join them, but President Roosevelt said yesterday he had heard nothing about the formation of a South Atlantic squadron.

Some informed quarters said that if the fleet appeared at the canal for transit to the Atlantic, the move might be construed by Japan as a sign she could have a "free hand" in the Far East. should the fleet be heading toward the Philippines, they said, it might have a restraining effect.

Hoover Bows Himself Out As Candidate

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston Evening American Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—Herbert Hoover is still a patron saint of his party. The last of the Republican Presidents showed that he could, if he wished, be numbered among the candidates before this convention.

Indeed, some of his more ardent worshippers, like John W. Haigis of Greenfield, implored him to be drafted on the floor during today's session. But the blocky man with the melancholy face said, "No."

HERBERT E. HOOVER

No, he said, his active participation in the political arena was one with the dead and not too dear past.

But Hoover has a thumb in the pudding as the nominating session begins. He is staying in this city instead of hustling away to an early train, as he did immediately after his 1934 convention speech at Cleveland.

HEART IS HEALED

His heart, sore then, is healed now. So last night after his address which in effect was a second keynote speech, he claimed in a brief and running interview with a few of the press that his is a hands-off policy.

He would, he said, neither favor nor disparage the candidacy of any man.

"I have malice toward none," he said in a parson's voice as he was being trundled toward the south exit of the convention hall by a wedge of sombrero-ed state police.

It was an ample speech, placidly received, and his ovation arranged by whatever agency directs such things, lasted for 10 minute intervals before and after—not a hearty reception but not an apathetic one, either.

This convention isn't going in for rodeo effects, and though a few delegates from the Western states tried to whoop up an aisle parade and lead further hosannahs, matters quieted down quickly.

Still, it is plain that this convention regards Hoover as its party patriarch. It isn't in a mood to nominate him or any of its other Old Testament characters.

But his counsel will go far in the closet conferences with delegation leaders, though here, they say his powers are more of a veto sort

'SAVE AMERICA' PLEA STIRS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—A roaring ovation for Herbert Hoover's plea to "save America for free men" sent the Republican convention on its way today toward the big job of adopting an anti-war platform and picking a presidential nominee.

A foreign policy dispute in the resolutions committee, not settled until last night, threw the convention behind schedule, however, and gave the sharply contesting candidates a chance to continue their "home work" with the 1000 delegates.

For the moment, though, the delegates were intent upon Mr. Hoover when he took the platform last night. They shouted, blew whistles and marched up and down the aisles waving banners for eight and a half minutes after he had asked the question:

"Republicans, are you willing to go into this fight?"

He was referring to a fight to save America from the "suicide road" down which he said the New Deal was taking the nation—the same "suicide road," he declared, that had led to loss of liberty and disaster in Europe.

RIDICULES POLICIES

The former President, speaking more than an hour, analyzed his view of what was wrong with President Roosevelt's policies.

Upon these policies he poured sarcasm and ridicule and such epithets as "stabilizing depression," "the flabbiness of the New Deal," and "totalitarian liberals."

As he finished, he stood on the platform and waved to the delegates while they cheered. Some of those in the convention hall suggested that the tone of his voice had been that of a man willing to take on the Democrats next fall.

Certainly, plenty of former Hoover lieutenants were strewn through the audience. More than o . of those who hauled state standards out of their floor sockets and went yelling up the aisles dated back to the pre-Roosevelt days in Washington.

RECESS TO 1 P. M.

Talk of the speech filled the convention hall as the delegates recessed until 1 p. m. E.S.T. today to complete a platform and wade through the oratorical flourishes which will usher the contesting candidates into the arena.

Speculation arose that the former President might be drafted by the

Not Available, Hoover Says

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (INS)—Former President Herbert Hoover today virtually removed himself from the picture as a G.O.P. presidential candidate.

At a crowded press conference, Hoover was asked

"Are you available as a nominee at this time?" He replied:

"I don't think you see any evidences of that so far as I am concerned in Philadelphia."

Confusion Rules N. E. Delegates

By HERBERT CARYL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (INS)—Confusion reigned today among New England's ninety votes as the Republican National Convention reached the all-important task of selecting a standard bearer.

Willkie sentiment remained amid a bedlam of claims and counter-claims by supporters of other presidential nominee aspirants.

The New England situation lined up about as follows:

Massachusetts, 34 votes, undecided whether to vote on the first ballot for Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., or to vote for him on the second ballot and "stick by Joe" if he appeared to have a chance to win.

A majority of delegates admitted they "liked Willkie."

Connecticut, 16 votes, firm with Governor Raymond E. Baldwin for Willkie.

Rhode Island, eight votes, four definitely for Willkie, one wavering, two probably for Dewey and the other for Taft.

Vermont, nine votes, a majority favorable to Willkie.

New Hampshire, eight votes, a majority ready to "go through" for "favorite son," Sen. Style Bridges, with one, former Governor Huntley M. Spaulding, for Willkie.

Maine, 13 votes, divided but with some Willkie support.

G.O.P. Plank Stresses Defense

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—A platform demanding that national defense requirements be placed ahead of aid to "oppressed peoples" of the world was being polished up today for submission to the Republican national convention.

Approved by the resolutions committee last night, the statement of party policy was reported to specify that help extended to other nations "must be consistent with national defense." Private, as distinguished from government, aid would be encouraged.

Herbert K. Hyde of Oklahoma, resolutions committee chairman, said the platform would be given to the convention as soon as technical details of drafting could be completed, probably during the afternoon.

BAY STATE FIGHT SEEN

A possibility developed that the Massachusetts delegation might try to open the platform for revision from the floor. At a private caucus, it was learned, objections were raised to one undisclosed sentence of the defense plank.

It also was stated reliably that the caucus voted almost unanimously against a plank concerning government aid to, or regulation of, public utilities. Many of the state delegates felt, according to informed reports, that it might arouse criticism if Wendell Willkie, utilities executive, received the presidential nomination.

Sen. Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts had been advocating a proposal for universal military training, but a convention sub-committee was understood to have given it a cool reception.

On the other hand, the full resolutions committee was said to have approved a statement defining a "base defense area" in the Western Hemisphere.

WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS

This included, it was explained, territory which committee members felt the Army and Navy were equipped now to defend—North America, Alaska, Canada and Central American nations immediately south of the Caribbean sea. This area would be extended, it was said, as rearmament progressed.

Running nearly 3000 words, the platform dealt with a wide range of subjects, from posed changes in the Wagner Act to a newly-coined phrase for farm benefits. This latter was a proposal that farmers be given a "profits price," analagous to the current "parity" price, for their crops. Soil conservation payments would be continued.

A plank advocating the return to the free circulation of gold, now barred by law, as well as urging cessation of foreign silver purchases was reported approved.

Congressional assent before entering into reciprocal trade agreements was said to have been demanded.

Willkie Wires Cost N. E. Folks Dime Tip Each

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (INS)—There was some criticism among both the Maine and Massachusetts delegations today over a veritable deluge of "Vote for Willkie" telegrams and letters. They have averaged at least 150 telegrams and letters a day from back home since the delegation arrived Sunday.

It was costing the thrifty "Downeasters" a dime tip every time a hotel page brought the messages to their rooms.

CONANT, COMPTON NAMED TO DEFENSE BRAIN TRUST

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Organization of a new "Brain Trust" among scientists and inventors to aid in the defense of the Western Hemisphere was announced here today by one of the leading scientists of the United States.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, chairman of the national defense research committee appointed by President Roosevelt and president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, outlined plans for the co-ordination of research activities throughout the Americas and the pooling of essential resources and ideas.

CO-ORDINATION STRESSED

The principal problem of the preparedness program of the Americas is the co-ordination of the facilities available and the co-ordination of scientists in solving new problems presented to them.

The new committee, already partly organized, has been set up to guide and superintend the work of thousands of scientists working in hundreds of industrial, university and private laboratories who may have military research work assigned to them. One of the main purposes will be to avoid duplication of activity.

As an example, Dr. Bush said, when the army or navy presents a new problem in chemistry or physics, such as the making of a new alloy metal, it may be "farmed out" to one or a dozen of the country's leading experts in metallurgy or electrochemistry.

Some of the problems may be referred to scientists in Central and South America and Canada since it will be the job of the committee to fit the problem to the scientist or engineer best equipped to handle it.

CONANT, COMPTON NAMED

"While this is designated as a defense committee, it must be remembered that often the best method of defense is the creation of adequate offensive weapons," the Carnegie Institution president said.

In addition to Dr. Bush the committee as now organized consists of Conway P. Coe, commissioner of patents; Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the National Academy of Sciences and president of the Bell Telephone laboratories, New York; Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., and Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, director of the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

WPA State Force Reduced Again

More of the administrative personnel of WPA in Massachusetts were given notice today and rumors were current that one-half the administrative force is to be dropped here by July 1.

Although Dennis W. Delaney, state administrator, now is in St. Louis, other officials pointed out that one-third of the executive force has been let go in the last three weeks and that reduced appropriations would continue to cut funds available for administration.

OUR PLAN—First prices must be low or we lose through automatic reductions — 25% after 12 selling days; 50% after 18 selling days; 75% after 24 selling days. Goods given away to charitable institutions after 30 selling days.

MRS. DANIEL W. HOGE
Kissed by Bob Burns?

BOB BURNS NAMED IN KISS SUIT

LOS ANGELES, June 26—Charges of kisses and kidnaping were involved today in a $70,000 suit filed against Bob Burns, the drawling comedian, by his erstwhile best friend, Daniel W. Hoge.

Bob Burns

In depositions taken last April but just revealed, Hoge, a civil engineer, denied he had ever accused Burns of stealing his wife's affections but he stated he had seen Burns kiss Mrs. Hoge. Once, he declared, she had come in at 2 a. m. saying she had been out with the comedian.

The suit, which charges false imprisonment, states that Hoge was "seized and kidnaped" Dec. 17, 1938, by investigators who induced him to sign a document releasing Burns from any possible charge of having alienated Mrs. Hoge's affections.

In a companion deposition, Burns assserted he had been informed some time ago he might be named co-respondent in a divorce suit by Hoge, but that "I just laughed at it, it was so utterly ridiculous."

While Hoge's deposition was being taken he was questioned concerning the relationship between Burns and Mrs. Hoge.

"I don't know. I have seen them kiss one another and that kind of stuff," he replied.

"Mr. Burns knew you were present?"

"I guess so," Hoge answered.

Friends of 35 Years to Wed

A friendship which stood the test of 35 years will culminate in wedding bells next week for Mrs. Mary Claes, 64-year-old South Boston widow, and Felix Van Santvoort, 70, a widower, of Albion st., Somerville.

This the bridegroom-to-be confided after a pre-nuptial dinner at the Claes home on East Seventh st. The couple took out wedding intentions at City Hall yesterday.

Both were born in Antwerp and came to the United States 35 years ago. Both were married in the intervening years. Van Santvoort is the father of three grown children, while Mrs. Claes, who has been twice married, is childless.

"When two people can be friends for 35 years, I guess they ought to get along all right," said Mrs. Claes.

Choir Sponsors Clifford Mass

The men and boys' choir of the Immaculate Conception Church will sponsor a memorial mass at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow in honor of the late Thomas E. Clifford of Rozella st., Dorchester, it was announced today.

Mr. Clifford was a well-known choir director in Boston, directing the Immaculate Conception choir and those in other churches, including the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, St. Augustine's, South Boston; St. James, St. John's, Roxbury, and the Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston.

The choir is under the direction of Leonard Whalen. The Rev. Francis L. Archdeacon will be celebrant. Mr. Clifford died last summer.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 25 (AP)—A statewide search was being carried on today for Policewoman Mary Brown, 55, of Burlington, who disappeared mysteriously Monday after investigating a routine case.

425 for Police--- Sergeant Test

Names of 425 Boston patrolmen, eligible for promotion to sergeant, were announced today by the State Civil Service Commission.

The list stands for two years and was established as a result of an examination held March 9.

The highest number of sergeants in the department was 187 several years ago. There are now 176.

The first 25 listed are:

Gilbert H. Noyes, 99 Francis st., Roxbury, Roxbury Crossing station; Robert L. Gray, 27 Knoll st., Roslindale, bureau of operations; Harry T. Kershaw, 441 Washington st., Dorchester, detective bureau; Joseph C. Morgan, 49 Bullard st., Dorchester, West End station; Timothy F. Collins, 660 Walk Hill st., Mattapan, Mattapan station; Joseph A. Marshall, 28 Edwin st., Dorchester, Charlestown station; Andrew K. Adair, 11 Carroll st., W. Roxbury, South End station; Frederick G. Murphy, 26 Addington rd., W. Roxbury, W. Roxbury station.

William J. Thomas, 7 Dawes st., Dorchester, So. Boston station; John H. Pierce, 121 Durnell ave., Roslindale, W. Roxbury station; Joseph L. Barrett, 93 Binney st., Boston, detective bureau; Harold C. Stelfox, 54 Chesbrough rd., W. Roxbury, East Boston station; James J. Doherty, 72 Joyce Kilmer rd., W. Roxbury, traffic division; Charles C. Bandits Slug Woman Druggist in Roxbury

Two bandits, one carrying a revolver, beat and robbed a woman pharmacist today in her drug store in Center st., Roxbury.

The victim, Mrs. Charlotte P. Leibel, 43 of Blue Hill av., Mattapan, was slugged twice, knocked to the floor, and threatened with the gun.

The robbers emptied the cash register of approximately $25 and fled in an automobile later identified as stolen.

Although bruised and shaken, Mrs. Leibel escaped serious injury.

She told police she was alone in the store when two men strode in, one of them brandishing a nickel plated gun.

They came behind the counter, demanding money. Before Mrs. Leibel could meet their demand, the unarmed bandit punched her, she said.

Then the man with the gun stepped close and knocked her down.

Meantime, the other bandit emptied the cash register. Then both raced away in a car.

Russia Boosts Workers' Hours

MOSCOW, June 26 (AP)—Soviet Russia is discarding its six-day week—five days of work and a holiday on the sixth—for a seven-day week like that of the Western world.

Under a new plan, announced today by the Soviet radio, workers will stay at their jobs six days and rest on the seventh, instead of working five days and resting on the sixth.

Moreover, the radio said, the number of daily working hours will be increased. Figures were not announced immediately.

The idea is to increase production, and the radio estimated production would rise by one-sixth. It also estimated that the increase in hours and days would be equivalent to putting 2,000,000 new workers in jobs.

Under the plan about to be scrapped a worker had 61 weekly holidays a year. The new plan would provide 52.

Stocks Slump $1-$3 a Share

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Repeated dips carried stock leaders to $3 a share lower in a gloomy market today.

Aircrafts and steels, worst hit of all, were a little steadier near noon after weak morning dealings. Turnover throughout the list was moderate.

Among the principal shares in retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, United Aircraft, Harvester, U. S. Rubber, General Motors, Chrysler, Union Carbide, Du-Pont, Westinghouse, Great Northern Preferred, Santa Fe, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting and Loft.

Bonds scaled off and commodities were uneven.

Tobin Proclaims Hub Sport Week

Mayor Maurice J. Tobin today proclaimed the first seven days of July as National Sports Week, publicly asking that the movement be supported with wholehearted enthusiasm.

The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, one of the prime factors in the development of clean sports, has set apart this week to center attention on athletic activities of the nation.

In joining the campaign, Mayor Tobin added Boston to the growing list of municipalities observing the National Sports Week.

BACK FROM WAR ZONE

MRS. NATHAN WENTWORTH AND DAUGHTER, LINDA LOU
Newton Woman Describes War Horror

U. S. REFUGEE WIFE TELLS FLIGHT HORROR

In ox carts and in chauffeured limousines; on bicycles and on weary feet thousands upon thousands of refugees fled Paris along choked roads leading to seaports and safety.

Thus does an American bride, former Newton high school and Vassar graduate, describe the giant, and horror-clouded, exodus from war-torn France.

She is Mrs. Nathan H. Wentworth, the former Virginia Willard, of Byfield rd., Newton, and to this minute she does not know whether her husband is alive in Paris, or a victim of German bombs.

She was at home with her mother, Mrs. J. A. Willard, today after a harrowing flight from France with her infant girl, Linda Lou, aboard the liner Washington.

Calmly she described her plight and that of other Americans who were loaded into lifeboats as a submarine threatened to sink the ship while on her way to Galway, Ireland.

NASTY SOUND

"It was shortly after 5 o'clock when the alarm bells began ringing," she said. "They had a particularly nasty sound, like an alarm clock many times exaggerated. No stewards were in sight near my cabin. I wrapped up the baby and threw a dressing gown over myself. I carried Linda to the smoking room, where the stewards and crew members were quietly directing all to their assigned life boats.

"They told us it was a drill. Everybody was calm. We did not know the submarine was threatening to sink us. I'll never forget the suspense as a sailor handed me into the life boat and then passed Linda to me. It seemed the life boat was miles away from the ship's side as we hung suspended from the davits. I was afraid he would drop the baby."

After some time, the big liner began moving and finally was going full speed ahead.

"It was the queerest sensation," she said. "There we were hung out over the ship's side in the lifeboats and she was churning through the waves."

FADE THINGS EASY

In describing the flight from Paris to the port of Bordeaux, Mrs. Wentworth gave a vivid picture of a constant stream of humanity of all ages flying before the planes and guns of the invader.

"I must say that the government did everything in its power to make things easy. In each little town there was a refugee station where medical care and food could be obtained. But even with the special coupons we were issued it was almost impossible to get gasoline, and sleeping quarters were hardly to be had.

HAYDEN STARTS PICTURE

HOLLYWOOD, June 26—Handsome Sterling Hayden, 24, blond sea-rover of Arlington and Gloucester, Mass., was embarked on a movie career today.

His first name changed and already mentioned romantically, the young skipper began his first motion picture, "Virginia," a Paramount production.

For reasons unknown to himself, the movie moguls plan to bill their newest find as Norman Hayden, he said.

But what's a name when a fellow has a pretty girl friend like Jean Cagney, pretty sister of Star James Cagney, to make the rounds with in the film capital's smart night places?

Sterling—or Norman—and Jean are seen together frequently dancing and dining after grimacing before the cameras.

Hayden, who has spent nine of his 24 years navigating the seas, has sailed around the world in the Gloucester schooner Yankee.

As captain, he sailed the brigantine Florence C. Robinson from Gloucester to Tahiti in 1938, establishing a record for the passage and bringing his vesel through a hurricane with an amateur crew.

With another amateur crew early this year, he attempted to sail the big schooner Aldebaran, one-time private yacht of the former Kaiser, from Panama to Boston.

A storm opened up the hull and he was forced to put in at Charleston, S. C.

2 Held, 2 Sought In Club Holdup

Two South End men were held and two others sought today in the aftermath of a $2300 holdup of a score of men and women at the 500 Voters Club, Columbus ave., South End. Disclosure of the robbery, in which the patrons were lined against a wall last Saturday, did not come until the arrests.

According to police, victims who were robbed of money and jewelry identified the two men. Their arrests came after a patron gave authorities the number of an automobile seen leaving the building after the holdup.

VERMONT POLICE HUNT CLUE IN $20,000 GEM THEFT

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., June 26—State police today joined the search for $20,000 worth of jewelry carried by C. P. Donahue, a New York jewelry salesman, which vanished from a local store while he was repairing a flat tire outside.

Donahue, who identified himself as an employe of the Adams Jewelry Co. of New York, said the jewelry—much of it diamond-set "dummy" watches without works—was in a sample case he tucked beneath a bench in the store after discovering the tire trouble.

He told newsmen that when he found the tire would have to be changed he brought the case back into the store and asked the manager to suggest a place where it would be safe while he went to a garage. Upon his return, he said, the case was missing and the store staff was unable to explain its disappearance.

Donahue added that subsequent police investigation indicated the hole in his tire had been pierced by an instrument like an icepick or a hatpin.

British Troops Raid Nazi-Held Coastline

while reconnoitering Nazi air fields near the French coast.

Several other Messerschmitts were hit.

The British declared they lost no planes.

Another unit of the Royal Air Force made a daylight attack yesterday on an airdrome at Waalhaven, near Rotterdam, in the Netherlands, and still another raided an airdrome at Bomoen, near Bergen, Norway.

The British mentioned no raids on Germany proper, but the German high command said there were attacks on non-military objectives during the night in northern and western Germany, causing at least four deaths.—Editor's Note.

The Air Ministry said all the planes raiding Bomoen and Waalhaven returned safely.

Reconnaissance planes had observed German construction of the airport at Bomoen. The attack was said to have left buildings in flames there and 40 fires burning around the field.

MACHINE GUN BARRACKS

After wrecking the runway with bombs, the pilots flew low and machine-gunned barrack huts and a nearby woods.

Three of the German planes which raided the British Isles were brought down in Scotland by anti-aircraft batteries of British fighter planes.

The British news agency, Reuters, said the continental landings "and contacts made with German troops demonstrate that the Germans have assumed vast responsibilities in attempting to hold the entire northern coastline of the continent from the North cape along the Norwegian, Danish, German, Netherlands, Belgian and French coasts right down to the Spanish frontier with naval forces depleted in engagements with Allied navies.

"At various points along this huge line—notably in the channel ports—existing defensive establishments and harbor works were wrecked by the Allies before the Germans seized them.

"Apart from these weak links in the defensive chain, it will be necessary for the Germans to dispose very large numbers of troops along these thousands of miles of coastline to ward off the risk of raids made possible by dominant British sea power."

Many of the raiders attempting to break through defenses in eastern England were chased out to sea again after crossing the coast at a great height.

British Not Kind To War Spies

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—Wartime spying has "not been treated either with leniency or complacency" in Great Britain, the House of Commons was told today, but the government refused to disclose the number of persons shot as spies.

"It is not in the public interest to publish any information on this subject," said Richard Law, financial secretary to the war office.

WINDSOR CHATEAU NOW U.S. EMBASSY

By ROY PORTER

MONTS, France, June 26 (By Airplane Courier to Berlin) (AP)—Temporary offices of the American embassy in France have been set up here in the chateau of Charles E. Bedaux, where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were married.

The staff consistse of three men—Hugh S. Fullerton, first secretary; Ernest Mayer, third secretary, and Leigh Hunt, trade commissioner.

The chateau is not far from Tours, which the French government selected as its first temporary capital after departing from Paris.

It was in this building—the Chateau de Cande—that the former King Edward VIII of England and American-born Wallis Warfield Simpson were married June 3, 1937, less than six months after he abdicated. The owner is an American efficiency expert who was Windsor's close friend in his exile and co-operated in plans for a tour of the United States which later was abandoned.

Assistant military attache Robert Schow and air attache Jack Sterling accompanied the French government to Bordeaux when it left Tours for that city ten days ago.

In Chateau de Cande, the American diplomats said, they had been troubled very little by the fighting around them.

The high spot of their experience came when the French, retiring, blew up a nearby powder factory.

The gigantic explosion shook the windows of the chauteau. Several German officers appeared at the gates of the chateau, but when they saw the large American flag they excused themselves.

Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, reported recently that United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt had gone to Bordeaux with the French government, but there has been no direct news from France concerning his whereabouts.—Editor's Note.

I arrived here after a long swing through the war sectors south and west of Paris.

NAZI TROOPS POUR IN

Etampa, Orleans, Amboise and Blois—all scenes of recent fighting—were among the cities I visited.

I found German activity to be two-fold:

First, they are pouring thousands of troops into the area between here and Bordeaux and, second, they are trying to bring back normal civilian life in the occupied area.

All along the highways from Paris to Tours, long lines of German army convoys moved rapidly in formation.

Evidences of the hasty retreat of French troops were being removed. In many villages, German soldiers were sweeping the streets and piling abandoned French helmets, rifles and other equipment in heaps along the sidewalks.

Twenty trains of French war material stood motionless on railroad tracks leading into the communication center at Orleans. The freight included tanks, airplane motors, planes, artillery caissons, a few guns and large stocks of clothing.

Abandoned armored cars, piles of boxed ammunition, machine guns and rifles lined the highways.

A majority of the bridges along the Loire river are still standing, but along the Cher river they were mostly blow up. Of three bridges over the Loire at Orleans, one was destroyed.

FRENCH SEAPORT SEIZED

last night a communique of the French commander of North Africa declaring that "no foreign power" would be permitted to occupy any part of Tunisia, Algeria or Morocco.

(An informed source in Palestine declared a new French line would be formed in North Africa and through Egypt and Palestine to Syria for resistance to Germany and Italy, using as a nucleus the French near east army trained by General Maxime Weygand.)—Editor's Note.

The armistice parallels the French-German terms in many respects, including a provision that Italy may denounce it at any time if the French fail to fulfill the conditions.

As a guarantee, the armistice—effective until conclusion of a peace treaty—provides that Italy may claim all or part of the artillery and armored units which have engaged or faced Italian forces.

LAY DOWN ARMS

All arms, ammunition and war materials remaining in the unoccupied territory of France must be collected and placed under Italian-German control while all French forces are to lay down arms and be demobilized except for troops necessary to maintain internal order. The size and armaments of these troops are subject to dictation of Italy and Germany.

France undertakes to prevent any warships or war material from reaching England or other countries and also to keep her soldiers and citizens from joining any hostilities against Italy.

All French aircraft is to be grounded.

Italian prisoners captured by the French and Italian citizens interned by them are to be released.

Unlike Germany, Italy is not to occupy any considerable part of French territory.

30-MILE ZONE

The zone of military occupation extends a short distance into France from the Swiss border to the Mediterranean, including Briancon in the north, about five miles fro mthe frontier, and Mention, Mediterranean port about a mile inside the border.

French troops must be withdrawn from a zone extending 30 miles further into France and from zones ranging from 30 to 125 miles from the Libya-Tunisia and Libya-Algeria borders in Africa.

Within 15 days, the French fortified areas and naval bases on the Mediterranean are to be demilitarized—at Toulon, France; Bizerte, Tunisia; Oran, Alegria; and Ajaccio, Corsica.

Hands Off Asia, Japan Warns

possession of her defeated ally, France, was being squeezed by the Japanese army and navy.

JAP AT HAIPHONG

The British-owned newspaper China Mail said Japanese warships were off Haiphong, French Indo-China, where they "threw out a blockading screen, presumably with the intention of searching ships using that port.

Haiphong is more than 500 miles southwest of Hongkong.

Japanese troops approached French Indo-China from the northwest. The point they had reached, Lungchow, is some 500 miles west of this city, on the main road between Nanning, Kwangsi capital, and Hanoi, French Indo-China capital.

At the same time spirited fighting continued between the Japanese and Chinese in Hupeh Province, some 600 miles north of Hongkong.

Hands Off East Asia, Japan Warns Powers

TOKYO, June 26 (AP)—The newspaper Asahi said today that Japan would soon proclaim an "Asiatic Monroe Doctrine" to prevent the far eastern possessions of European nations from falling to Germany or Italy as spoils of war.

Japan, said Asahi, will issue a sweeping pronouncement warning all powers against interference of any kind in all territories of East Asia, the dictum applying to Germany and Italy as well as to Great Britain and neutral nations.

The declaration would oppose the transfer of territories and any change in their present status, either through cession or by force. Japan, said Asahi, now is prepared to establish a guarantee of the autonomy of East Asia.

RENEWING CAMPAIGN

The present government is not inclined to link Japan's course either with the Rome-Berlin axis, with Britain or with the United States. The cabinet simply is aiming to establish Japan definitely as the dominant factor in East Asia, consolidating her political and economic position, semi-official sources said.

British Deny Any Peace Plea

LONDON, June 26 (INS)—A report circulated by an American radio broadcaster that Britain was attempting to negotiate peace with Germany was vigorously denied and denounced today by official British quarters.

An official spokesman told International News Service:

"You may officially report that the broadcast by an American radio station that Sir Samuel Hoare is negotiating for peace through Spain is utterly false, mischievous and sounds as if it were enemy-inspired."

Martha Lee, Anne Adams, Anne Brent and Carol Ames are regular features on the women's pages in the Daily Record.

convention to run again, but it found no verification in fact.

GET SOME VOTES

Party leaders argued that such a movement would have to find roots in a deadlock between all or some of these four candidates —Wendell L. Willkie of New York, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Even then, there might be room for a dark horse contender such as Frank Gannett of New York, Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Governor James of Pennsylvania, or Hanford MacNider of Iowa, all of whom will get some first ballot votes.

Willkie managers figured he would get 100 votes on the first ballot. But the utilities executive was urging some of his supporters to come to his side quickly instead of waiting through several ballots to let his vote snowball.

"If you are for me, I want you to come to me quickly," he told delegates.

Kenneth F. Simpson, retiring New York National committeeman and a Dewey foe, indicated that he would support Willkie if Gannett dropped out.

WOULD REFUSE

Dewey and Taft were fighting to keep their lines clear and fishing for more delegates. Both claimed to have held their own. One report said that Joseph N. Pew, president of the Sun Oil Company, liked Taft. Pew disclaimed any intention, however, to take the Pennsylvania delegation out of the James camp into any other.

Vandenberg aides said the Senator was receiving overtures from the Taft, Dewey and Willkie camps for the vice-presidential nomination. This, they declared, he would refuse, just as he did in 1936 when Alf M. Landon of Kansas was nominated. They claimed he would have from 75 to 100 votes on the first ballot.

Bricker Halts Boom On Murphy's Ticket

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (INS) —Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio today indignantly repudiated the opening of "headquarters" booming him for President and Gov. Francis Murphy of New Hampshire for Vice-President.

A busy downtown street suddenly bloomed forth with a rash of placards advertising the alleged Bricker-Murphy ticket late yesterday. Gov. Bricker, supporting Sen. Robert A. Taft of his home state, said:

"When I heard of it, I said close it up and get my name out of it immediately."

London's Penny Fare On Buses Boosted

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—London's penny bus fares about 2 cents) will be raised to a penny and a half (about 3 cents) after July 3, the government announced today. Mounting costs due to war conditions were cited in explanation.

HOOVER SPURNS NOMINATION

than for endorsements and his thumbs down may mean more than his thumbs up.

Hoover in his speech did one thing, if nothing more. He crystallized the convention's foreign policy, which has so frazzled Alfred Landon's nerves.

Indeed, when he submitted his speech earlier in the day for party digest, it was mimeographed with a little gap in the middle and a notation:

"Insert on foreign policy to be supplemented later."

STRONG TEETH

Why? Because after reading Hoover's draft, the Landon committe blushed at the timidity of its own foreign plank, which at that moment was being sent to the night session of the convention for ratification. So Landon yanked it back again for revision and a better set of teeth.

Today the little white program cards which each delegate finds on his seat read briefly, (1) Prayer by Rabbi Aaron Sohn, (2) Nominations for President and Vice-President, (3) Roll call, (4) Appointment of committees to notify the candidates.

Sounds simple, but it isn't! Before the committees come to that ludicrous punctillio of "surprising" the candidate with the good news, there must be a series of long, tedious and eulogistic speeches, mercifully limited to half an hour each. Then a series of seconding speeches smothered after five minutes each. And then the balloting and re-balloting with recess for "mending fences" and hotel room haggling, carrying into Thursday, maybe Friday and ad infinitum.

EXTRAVAGANT CLAIMS

All the candidates are making the customary extravagant claims. Indeed, if their self estimates are true, there would have to be 1500 instead of 1000 votes.

None, not even Hanford MacNider, or Governor James of Pennsylvania, or Governor Bricker of Ohio, or Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, or Publisher Gannet or New York, have the candor to admit:

"I haven't got a chance but I may do myself some good."

Perhaps the most astute judge of balloting trends is House Minority Leader Joe Martin, ("Our Own Joe"), permanent chairman of the convention, who started yesterday's speech of acceptance with "you have bestowed on me a great honor," though he handpicked himself for the job some months ago.

Joe, who was given a college yell, (Ray-Joe, Ray-Joe) by some congressional colleagues Tuesday, can have anything he wants in this convention short of the presidential candidacy.

CLOSE FIRST BALLOT

And, some say, he has a wistful hunch that he might even get that, if Taft, Dewey and Willkie get snarled in one of those traffic jams. (The memorable Harding compromise in 1924 has given a lot of lesser politicians precedent for false hope.)

Martin told me this morning:

"Dewey is said to claim a first ballot vote of 400. I'll say anybody that gets that many so quick can't be stopped. I look for a close first ballot between Taft and Dewey, maybe around 300 each, with Vandenberg third with perhaps 150, and Willkie fourth with about 100.

"Willkie and Taft should gain some strength on the second ballot but look out for Willkie on the third. He must win quickly. If he doesn't get the needed 501 votes by that time the swing should be toward Taft and a possible decision, or deadlock by the fifth." A deadlock would be welcomed by at least six persons.

Willkie doesn't agree! With his Hoosier, folksie habit of admitting newsmen at any time, he told me today he'll win on the fifth ballot.

"If not before," he added.

Mines Laid at Panama

ticle tonight said the United States had mined both entrances to the Panama canal, had rushed heaviest railroad artillery to the Atlantic side of the zone and had placed the zone's defense forces on virtually a war footing.

The article, written by Lowell Limpus under a Panama dateline, said that with 30,000 men under arms, military authorities called the maneuvers an "emergency rehearsal."

PREPARES FOR TRUBLE

"But with intense activity still continuing," the article said, "qualified observers believed the army was getting ready for real trouble on short notice.

"The mine-laying fleet moved out on both sides of the isthmus yesterday immediately after the big Italian liner, Conte Biancamano, was shifted from a position from which its passengers and crew could have watched the proceedings," the article continued.

"The Army's new mine planter, Miles, accompanied by a number of tugs and smaller craft which have been transformed into temporary mine layers, went into action on the Pacific side before the Biancamano had entered the canal proper.

"The mine layer Graham and accompanying craft finished most of the job on the Atlantic side before the liner made its appearance and anchored there this afternoon.

VESSELS TO BE WARNED

"Meanwhile, guard ships took stations outside the mine fields, evidently to warn approaching vessels. Rigid restrictions were suddenly clamped down on the movements of smaller craft.

"There was still no knowledge here of reports that the fleet had been ordered from its Hawaii station to the canal.

"The two batteries of huge 15-inch railway guns shifted from the Pacific side will be able to back up the great coastal defense rifles in the forts defending the Atlantic entrance to the canal, adding immeasurably to the strength of that side of the isthmus."

U. S. Refugees Trapped 3 Days On Spain Bridge

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, June 25 (AP)—Eighty-six more Americans, hungry and thirsty, but cheerful, crossed the International Bridge from France here today. They were taken immediately to Bilbao, where it was reported yesterday a United States warship might come to take them away.

The remainder of a group of 147 Americans listed for entry last night were expected in the course of the day.

Howard Bucknell, counselor of the United States embassy in Madrid, and Brig.-Gen. John Greely, military attache, arrived to help in the removal of Americans.

Several Americans in San Sebastian, learning that some of the new arrivals had spent as much as three days on the international bridge, much of the time in driving rain and wind, organized an emergency canteen and distributed hot chocolate and sandwiches.

COLDEST JUNE 26 IN 37 YEARS

It not only rained again, but it also was the coldest day for this date in 37 years, the Boston Weather Bureau said today.

Lowest temperatures marked in around Boston were from 1 a. m. to 7 a. m., when the mercury stood at 52 degrees.

On June 26 in 1903 the temperature was 51.

Though .4 of an inch of rain fell in Boston in the last 24 hour, fair and warmer weather was promised for tonight.

The Boston federal tax unit employes had scheduled their annual outing today, but it was an "indoor" outing at Suntaug Inn in Lynnfield.

WAR ORPHAN APPEALS GROW DAY BY DAY IN NEW ENGLAND

As Britain readies liners and convoys for the immediate transportation of thousands of its children to America, New England men and women are writing in increasing numbers to offer homes of the American.

There are homes for the little refugees in our six States—homes for more than 1000.

Hundreds of families promise to shelter the children as long as the war continues over there.

Hundreds of others wish to adopt them, particularly the curly-haired baby girls and their chubby, young brothers.

All who want children, but who have delayed making a request are invited to write to the editor at 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, now.

If immigration difficulties in Washington can be adjusted more youngsters than were expected a week ago will come to the United States.

Meanwhile, every attempt will be made to enable every responsible family that seeks a child to receive one, either for temporary custody or permanent adoption.

Interesting letters in today's mail say:

SPRINGFIELD—"I hope and pray the children can be brought here from England before the hostilities become too horrible. I went through the last war and I know what a terrible thing this will be. I believe it will be much worse than anything that happened in Holland, Belgium or France. This will be a total war, and I wouldn't be surprised to read about poison gas being used any day.

"My wife and I are most anxious to save two children from that experience. We will take and affectionately care for boys or girls. The sex isn't important. Both require rescuing. We have a good home, and we can provide adequately for the little one."

SALEM—"Am very much interested in the war refugee children and would love to take a Dutch girl or boy between the ages of three and six. If the child is an orphan, I shall adopt it as soon as arrangements can be made. We lost three children at birth. If we can be foster parents we'd be happy and grateful."

WHITMAN—"My husband and I would like very much to have a little war orphan, either French, English or Dutch. We have no children and we would like to have one who has lost both parents. Either a boy or girl would be welcome, but we would prefer a girl.

"You may be sure we would give this child a good home and the same love and affection our own child would have."

HOMELESS ORPHANS OF WAR
Hundreds Write for Them

OSTERVILLE—"My husband and I would like to adopt two war babies. We would prefer a girl and boy from three to seven years of age. We are not rich, but feel that we could love and care for two children as we have none of our own.

"I do hope it will be possible for us to get two British children."

EAST FYMOUTH—"I would like to have two children, boy and girl, about three years of age for adoption. The nationality isn't important. With equal eagerness I am prepared to open my arms to a Dutch, Belgian or English child.

"I know it is awful over there in Europe and my heart goes out to those little ones who did not start the war, but who have to suffer its terrible consequences.

"My only regret is that I could not do more for them. My wife feels the same as I do."

FALL RIVER—"We would like to adopt a little girl from four to six years of age. If there are too many requests for little girls, we would gladly welcome a little boy. We have a little boy who would enjoy having a brother and playmate. We would take any nationality of Protestant faith.

"My husband and I will do all in our power to make the child happy and contented. We would give him our love and kindness. We would also provide a clean home and do for him everything we hope to do for the son God sent us."

MECHANICSVILLE, CT.—"My wife and I would like very much to take a war orphan, for we regard this as a challenge from the Lord who said: What you do to these little ones you do unto Me.' I was an orphan myself and I know what it is to be without a mother and father. We would like a little French girl, Catholic and between eight and ten years of age."

ARLINGTON—"My husband and I would be pleased to cooperate in the work of saving refugee children. We have a large home and sufficient financial means to provide generously for two little ones. Of course, we would like to adopt a baby boy or girl. But if that isn't possible we shall gladly keep them until it is safe for them to go back home to their own father and mother."

SPENCER—"I sincerely hope and pray all immigration difficulties will be speedily removed so that several thousand children from Europe will find a safe haven in this country. There are so many childless couples here who could take these little ones that it would be a crime to expose them needlessly to death in the air raids, which have already claimed many young lives.

"My husband and I would be willing to take two children—two boys or two girls. The age or nationality isn't important! We are principally interested in saving them the horrible experiences that await them at home.

"If arrangements can be made, we shall gladly adopt the children.

"Several of my friends in this vicinity share my opinion and would like to take refugees into their homes. I know several who are planning to write to you, if they have not already written."

Happy Days are Here Again

A barefoot boy and a fishing pole...

Who can forget the thrill of his first fish! And how good it tasted when mother cooked it—fresh from the water...

40-Fathom Fish has that same fresh-caught flavor. With a tang and a taste not found in fresh water fish. Because it comes from the cold, salty waters of the North Atlantic Ocean.

To millions of inlanders, 40-Fathom has made "good fishing" as close as the store around the corner. And good business for Boston and one of its principal industries.

BOB HOPE CONTEST LOTSA FUN

Brenda looked at Cobina, and said

"That Boston American contest is loads of laughs!"

Just then Yahoodi called up and said:

"That's what they keep telling me down at the office!"

They shook their heads in unison and said

"We know. We know!"

You too, should know that the Bob Hope Radio Show, with all of its stars, including Jerry Colonna, Brenda and Cobina, Jack Hope and Lolotte Reade, will all appear in person, on the Metropolitan Theater stage, beginning Friday.

Hope's newest Paramount laugh-provoker, "The Ghost Breakers," with Paulette Goddard, will add to the merriment of movie fans.

Check or fill in the correct solution to the above gag in the third picture of the series which appears today. Save your solutions until the last picture appears tomorrow. Then send all of them to Bobe Hope Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Also include the last line to the following limerick:

"Who's Yahoodi?" you hear everyone shout
When all your friends are gathered about,
It's not Bob Hope
'Cause he's a dope

A sample limerick line would be: "WHAT DO YOU KNOW? HE'S A BOY SCOUT!"

Limerick lines will be used to decide winners in cases of ties.

Letters must be postmarked no later than Friday, June 28, midnight.

Prizes include: First award, the only radio of its kind in the world, made by New England's most pioneering radio manufacturers, the Automatic Radio Manufacturing Co. of Boston.

This radio is unique in that it is the sensational Tom Thumb portable radio which will be autographed, personally, by Bob Hope and all the members of his show. What an ideal gift! It will be presented to the lucky winner at the Metropolitan Theater by Bob Hope, himself.

Ten awards of five genuine Rolls candid cameras, with carrying cases, and five Parker pen and pencil sets, are included by the Washington Jewelry Stores of Boston, Fitchburg, Brockton and Waltham. All prizes have been selected by Bob Hope at these famous stores.

Twenty-five pairs of tickets to the Metropolitan Theater are also listed. Hurry! Hurry! There's only one day left!

Ford Still Willing To Build U.S. Planes

DEARBORN, Mich., June 26 (INS)—Although the federal government has cancelled plans for mass production of airplane motors by his company, Henry Ford today reaffirmed his stand that he is ready to manufacture "as many planes and as many motors as the United States wants—any time it wants them."

Ford made his statement as an answer to an announcement of the national defense advisory council that his refusal to manufacture airplane motors for the British government will cause the council to "look elsewhere" for co-operation in the production of 9,000 Rolls Royce engines.

"We have something to offer our government any time they want it," Ford said. "I said that I can build 1,000 airplanes a day, and I can do it."

Amplifying Ford's reply, a spokesman for the Ford Motor Company said:

"When Mr. Ford made the announcement that he could build 1000 planes a day he intended they should be for the United States government. At no time did he promise to build planes or motors for the British.

In Washington negotiations between the national defense council and several automobile manufacturers for producing Rolls-Royce engines were in progress today following Ford's refusal.

It is possible that the General Motors and the Packard automobile plants might undertake the engine production. William S. Knudsen, head of the defense council, is on leave of absence from the presidency of General Motors.

NERVOUSNESS? RESTLESS NIGHTS? Is It Your Kidneys?

Active, normal-acting kidneys and bladder expel from the blood excess acids and poisons—that's their health-giving job.

If kidneys are sluggish or inactive, these harmful excess acids and poisons may stay in the blood and spreading through the system cause much misery and distress and bring on ill health in this regard.

For instance, lazy kidneys may be to blame if you are nervous, have to get up nights, have dizzy spells, backache, leg cramps or swollen ankles.

Better be safe than sorry — try a 35-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules — a real kidney diuretic and stimulant that may do you a lot of good.

They have been helping people for scores of years to correct their aches and pains when caused by lazy, sluggish kidneys.

But be sure and ask for and get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules — the genuine — pure and original. Don't be an easy mark and accept a cheap substitute — Look for the GOLD MEDAL on the box — the sign of purity — 35 cents.

THIS NEW QUICK BLOOD BUILDING METHOD HELPS TIRED SICKLY FOLKS GET STRONG —HEALTHY-FEEL GREAT!

Posed by Professional Model

Simple Test Doctors Use PROVES in 9 Days Thin Pale Watery Blood Can Be Changed To RICH, RED FIGHTING BLOOD!

When doctors say your blood is poor, they know how serious it is. They know that rich red blood is the stream of life, performing the vitally important job of keeping you well, lusty, strong, bubbling over with energy; and that when blood is thin, pale, watery, there is trouble ahead. Your blood, you know, teaches to every single part of your body, bearing with it life giving oxygen, and carting away the refuse and toxic wastes that constantly occur, as every minute your body is building and destroying tissue. Unless your blood stream is able to bear its cargo of oxygen, unless it is constantly delivering body-building nutriment to these tissues, and unless it is efficiently carrying away the waste, you can't be healthy and strong. So — when you are tired, sickly, rundown, constantly ailing, by all means look to your blood stream.

What Makes Rich, Red Blood

Healthy nourishing blood is composed of a number of elements, including protein fats, carbohydrates, mineral salts, vitamins, and a mysterious red blood cell building substance (most generously found in raw liver). Many of these elements you get in your daily diet, although these — vitamins and the blood-building elements — are often seriously deficient. In Boncquet Tablets, a new pleasant-tasting tablet form, there is combined Red Blood Cell Maturing Factor (raw liver principle); Vegetable (Organic) iron and other minerals derived from vegetables especially fertilized and grown to insure a high natural vitamin and mineral content; Vitamin B complex which contains all the vitamins enriched with pure crystalline vitamins B and G; easily assimilable calcium and phosphorus.

In 9 days — in which time a third of your blood is rebuilt — you almost invariably will note a marked improvement in the way you feel, in new strength, new appetite, new energy, and better general well being. Remember every day matters run in terms of your red blood cells are being destroyed and reformed, and if you are not getting the material with which to rebuild these red blood cells, you are headed for trouble. Boncquet Tablets can help you. They cost little to use and are guaranteed to show you satisfactory results in 9 days or your money back. Start taking Boncquet Tablets today.

The Wood-Vogel Wedding

Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving and Rev. Abbot Peterson are officiating at the Wood-Vogel wedding in the First Parish Church, Brookline, and the reception is taking place in the Vogel's garden on Warren st. . . .

The pretty blonde bride, given in marriage by her father, is wearing a gown of white marquisette with short puff sleves, a full skirt and tulle veil falling from a simple tulle coronet . . . Her sisters, Olivia and Nancy, and the bridegroom's sisters, Marian and Alice Wood, are members of the bridal party, together with Marian Minot, Phyllis Howe and Dorothy Rackemann . . . Their gowns of pink marquisette are made like the bride's and they are wearing wreaths of fresh flowers in their hair . . .

Arthur Thomson Wood is his brother's best man and the large usher corps includes Orrin G. Wood, Harcourt Wood, P. Loring Reed, Donald C. Watson, Vincent R. Bailey, Francis Sargent and Rudolph Talbot of Boston, William C. Coleman of Baltimore, James A. Rousmaniere of New York, John Atherton of Louisville and Gaylord Dillingham of Honolulu . . .

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin G. Wood of Brookline who entertained the bridal party at dinner last evening. His clubs at Harvard include A. D. and Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770 . . . Veevee graduated from Winsor School in 1936 and is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 26—Director Kurt Bernhardt, who has been egging Warners to give him Eddie Albert for his next picture, "The Stuff of Heroes," won't have to beg any more.

Since "My Love Came Back" was previewed night before last the whole town has been raving about Bernhardt's direction. He elicited great work from Albert, Olivia De Havilland and Jeffrey Lynn and the preview audience gave thunderous approval to the picture.

So now he'll have Albert, whom he considers a young Spencer Tracy, as his star for "The Stuff of Heroes."

Story is by Ivan Goff, who drew top writing credit on "My Love Came Back." Bernhardt is also slated to direct Miriam Hopkins in a film-biography of Mrs. Leslie Carter, and I understand Miriam, who wasn't too enthused when his name was first suggested, is now all for him.

BOB HOPE MAKES PERSONAL APPEARANCE HERE FRIDAY

Radio Comedian Coming to Met

Bob Hope, radio toothpaste salesman who is demanding that his weekly wage be upped 100 per cent to $8000 as a result of his recent record-breaking personal appearance engagements, is expected to take Boston by storm.

He is due to appear in the flesh on the Metropolitan stage for the week commencing Friday, surrounded by his gifted radio troupe. These include Boston's own Jerry Colonna, Brenda, and Cobinna. Dolores Reade, Hope's attractive wife.

The wise-cracking Hope, whose film comedy ranks with the best, may also be seen on the screen during his week of personal appearances. His latest picture, "The Ghost Breakers," in which he is co-starred with the very photogenic Paulette Goddard, will be the celluloid attraction at the Met for the week starting Friday.

These two, last seen in "The Cat and the Canary," are said even to surpass their performances in that hilariously screwy mystery melodrama in "The Ghost Breakers." Appearing in support of them are Richard Carlson, Willie Best, colored comedian who plays Hope's Man Syracuse; Paul Lukas and Anthony Quinn.

In addition to the Hope air show cast, the Met's new stage show will include Georgie Tapps, tap dancer, and Jack Hope, vocalist. The unit comes to Boston direct from record-smashing engagements in New York, Chicago and Detroit.

Rakov, popular radio maestro, with his augmented orchestra, will be an added attraction on the stage bill.

Laughton Film At Trans-Lux

"Payment Deferred," the horror film which introduced Britain's Charles Laughton to American movie-fans, is being revived, starting tomorrow, on Trans-Lux screen. The co-feature is "Dr. Maniac," a Karloff horror picture.

Appearing with Laughton are his countryman, Ray Milland, and the Irish beauty, Maureen O'Sullivan.

2 Fine Films In Double Bill

"Brother Orchid" and "Our Town," which rate a whole fistful of 'em, is the super-special double-features offering for Scollay and Modern patrons, starting Friday.

Edward G. Robinson, in the title role, and Ann Sothern, as his dimwit darling, are the stars of the thoroughly entertaining "Brother Orchid." Deserving bows too, are the performances of Ralph Bellamy, Humphrey Bogart and Allen Jenkins.

"Our Town," film version of Thornton Wilder's beautiful Pulitzer Prize winning play, has been transferred to the screen with incredible success. Martha Scott and Frank Craven, who created the original roles in the stage show, repeat their excellent performances.

THE decision of Santa Barbara, Cal., to oblige school teachers to retire at the age of 65 interests many American cities, particularly Massachusetts cities.

The controversy that preceded the Western city's ruling brought out two interesting arguments.

One side contended that mandatory retirement at sixty-five was advisable so that the school administration should not be accused of favoritism for unusually popular teachers or for those who did not show their age.

But the opponents maintained that many teachers were efficient after 65 and that national defense emergencies might soon call to service the younger educators.

A judicious and experienced outlook would lean heavily toward the second view.

A great many teachers are not only efficient but downright brilliant after 65.

In fact, it often requires 65 years to achieve certain pedagogical attitudes and skills.

Our public life is replete with men and women, well past 65, who are doing the best work of their lives—in many cases, work well advanced over that of younger persons.

Besides, "unusual popularity" in a teacher is a great professional asset, and a teacher who "does not show his age" is usually a striking demonstration of sound thinking and right living.

There is too much preoccupation, too much stress, laid nowadays on arbitrary age limits—whether maximum or minimum.

The wise and proper course always is to determine the individual case.

For it is very often true that many a dangerous and difficult course can be steered at 65 that could not even be charted at 50.

CAMBRIDGE JOINS the parade of patriotic cities that require military training in their high schools.

Unanimously, the school committee has adopted Dr. James J. Cassidy's proposal for compulsory drills after September 1.

In view of the international situation and the unprecedented need for national and individual preparedness, the new course is both wise and justified.

But there are other benefits, equally important.

Military training improves young men, straightens stooped shoulders, encourages manly deportment and produces better, more loyal citizens.

For years, fathers and mothers who can afford the tuition have favored private schools which follow the pattern of West Point and Annapolis.

There is no reason why the sons of parents who cannot afford private schools should have an inferior kind of education.

PICTURES OFTEN TELL a story more dramatically and forcefully than words written with pen or typewriter.

A Safety Lane Might Have Prevented This!

There are no safety lanes for pedestrians at Columbus ave. and Yarmouth st., although only a few weeks ago Mayor Tobin pledged himself and his administration to provide NINETY MILES of them at all danger spots to prevent tragedies like this!

KNOW WHAT I'm going to do when I finish this daily masterpiece? I am going fishing. Have gone in training to get myself health for those "grim, dark days" the radio commentators keep shrieking are just around the corner. Even if those days never come a fellow needs steady nerves just to read the war news and listen to those what's-going-to-happen-to-the-world crepe hangers you meet by the dozens. I don't care much for fishing. But the fishing I do now is different. Everybody on the pier puts up a half a dollar. Fellow who catches the largest fish gets the pot. You can win as high as a hundred dollars. I haven't won yet, but I always have a good time thinking how I will spend the hundred dollars if I win it.

THE LONGEST WORD in the English language is honorificabilitudinitatibus. It appears in Shakespeare . . . Mussolini was originally a pacifist and was once arrested for leading a demonstration against war. Time marches on! And it seems to be exceeding the speed limit . . . A man in Cleveland asked for divorce on the ground his wife permitted herself to get too fat. Let that be a lesson to you, lady. And remember, as Lord Byron said:

"GIRLS WHO LIKE FOOD ARE SELDOM WOOED."

GENE TUNNEY is cool, calm and collected as usual. Only time Mr. Tunney's even temper is disturbed is when somebody asks "What became of 'Boo Boo' Hoff?" Gene is going to open a restaurant and call it the Shakespeare Inn. All the plates will have quotations from the bard of Avon on them. Isn't that Ducky? Speaking of opening restaurants tell me frankly which of my eatery ideas do you like best? The "Silver Dollar" Durling's Place with silver dollars embedded in the floor or the "Old Hoss" Durling's Ranch House Kitchen idea with the slogan "Come and Git It." I could have another slogan for this latter type place: "The Strawberry Roan Will Greet You" . . . Anne McDonnell is candidate for Lucky Girl of July. On the thirteenth of that month she is to marry Henry Ford, 2nd, grandson of the Great Henry. Know anybody who married on the thirteenth? What luck did they have in after life? . . . Mrs. Ethelburt Warfield is the Duchess of Windsor's cousin. Understand the Duchess has been recently saying to the Duke in the words of the elderly ditty, "Take Me Back, Back, Back to Baltimore." For which I don't blame her.

-:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, June 26—A country inn has moved into our vicinity in New York City. If there is any part of a big city that seems like a village, it is around Washington Square and, therefore, a country inn, looking for a home in New York City, would naturally gravitate to this part of it. The food is good and the atmosphere quiet, so I recommend this inn if you want a place to eat leisurely and chat peacefully.

When I wander around this part of New York City, I remember a very charming, gentle old lady, my cousin Mrs. Weekes, who once danced with Lafayette. She used to tell me how, in her early married days, her husband took the market basket on one arm while she clung to the other and was piloted through the busy streets to do her marketing in MacDougal alley.

She was not accustomed to the great metropolis, so he never let her go out alone. Sometimes he did the marketing for her, for the head of the family was really the head of the family in those days and took some real responsibility about the housekeeping.

THE RAIN SPOILED my chance last evening to hear Julia Francis Biddle's poem sung at the Lewisohn Stadium, but Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lewisohn gave us a great treat by inviting some of us to the Cosmopolitan Club to hear Mrs. Biddle read her poem.

Mr. Ross played a little of William Grant Still's music and Miss Louise Burge sang the Negro mother's lament for her boy who had been lynched. It had all the simplicity of expression and all the depths of emotion so well expressed by the Negro voice.

This morning I started out early to attend a meeting of the Committee for the Care of Refugee Children. I am thankful beyond words that it is going to be possible to do something for these European children, but my heart is heavy when I think of the tragedies which haunt the lives of many grown people.

UNDER THE QUOTA we have received a number of German, Austrian, Italian and Spanish refugees. People who have been marked people in their own countries because of their active opposition to Fascist or Nazi regimes. They have left behind them, however, in France, Sweden and England members of their families, intimate friends, beloved political leaders and now cannot rest in safety because of the dangers which surround these loved ones.

Many of these people could help us greatly in the next few weeks or months, for they know how the Communists, Nazis and Fascists work.

They know how propaganda is spread, how young people are influenced. They are as good material as the political refugees who came with Carl Schurz, the German, or Kosciusko, the Pole, whose statues we have taught our young people to honor because of their love of liberty.

DIANA BARRYMORE SAVES FRIEND

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 26—CALLING ALL STARS. The President's former Brain-truster, Rex Tugwell—whom Mayor La Guardia favors as his successor at City Hall—will resign from his city administration job to accept a Federal post. Tugwell's new assignment is expected to keep him in New York . . . Pres. Vargas: For the past few years, Carlos Davila, ex-President of Chile, has been trying to interest our State Department in a plan for our economic domination of South America as a means of combating Nazi influence there. Now that Roosevelt announced such a plan a few days ago, Davila at last is being recognized. He lunched in Washington, Sunday, with Sumner Welles . . . John Barrymore: A Barrymore finally has accomplished something without publicity. Your daughter, Diana, rescued Hiram Sherman from drowning recently, when the canoe in which they were riding tipped over.

WILL HAYS: Harry Edington, the new head at RKO, has been very much touched by the war's effect upon the motion picture industry. A few days ago he told someone: "Last night, before I went to sleep, I decided upon a new policy for my company. From now on—only entertainment" . . . Gov. Dickinson: When Madge Evans went to the Ann Arbor Festival, to appear in her husband's play, "The World We Make," the script was censored by Valentine Windt, the director. Sidney Kingsley consented to eliminate some of the rough lines—but on the way out of the theater the playwright noticed a framed picture in the lobby . . . a painting of an exotic nude. "Look," said Kingsley to Windt, "and you wouldn't even let me say 'darn.'" . . . Equity: Dorothy Hall, the stage star, has turned to movie writing. She finished her first scenario, "Twenty-one."

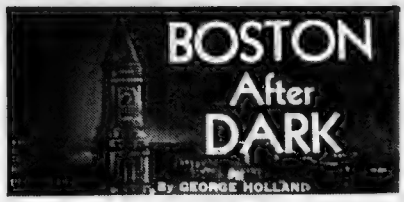
LILLIAN GISH: As soon as Oscar Serlin, producer of "Life With Father," returns from Hollywood he'll start arranging for your sister, Dorothy, to appear in the Boston company of that show . . . Kirsten Flagstad: Walter Slezak is telling of his father, Leo Slezak, who once appeared in "Lohengrin"—wherein he was to make the customary entrance astride a swan. Slezak became involved in a discussion in the wings, and the prop-Swan went past him and onto the stage. The distraught Slezak was shocked, turned to one of the stage hands and asked: "When does the next swan leave?"



THE PEST WITH A POLICE WHISTLE who pierced the collective eardrum of the radio audience throughout the Hoover speech was equally annoying to the conventioneers . . . A "Joe Martin Original," a member of that constant and small group who fought the Congressman's first political fight with him back in 1915, was given credit for silencing the whistle . . . "Joe's boys" are doing everything possible to ease Joe's strain of presiding over the convention . . . But "the boys"—as of four a. m. today—were "fighting mad" . . . The Massachusetts delegation represents a sharper cleavage in the ranks than any other delegation from New England . . . Congressman Martin, who would be eminently satisfied with the Speakership of the House—a job he is sure to get if the G. O. P. wins—was on the point of "chucking" the first-ballot tribute that many thought was owed him.

THE NORTH ATTLEBORO LEADER instructed his friends to release all delegates from voluntary pledges to vote for him on the first ballot . . . A satisfying feature of the disappointing attitude of the Bay State delegation was Governor Saltonstall's sincere efforts to rally the entire delegation to Congressman Martin's support on Ballot 1 . . . Underlying the situation is an unpublicized but sizeable bloc of votes from this state that favors former President Hoover . . . When the tally is made, several delegates who live much closer to Boston than John Haigis's native Greenfield will declare for Hoover—unless they switch.

THIS IS NOT NEW STRENGTH, born of the Hoover oration . . . Several Dewey-men from the Bay State were ready to switch to Hoover on an early ballot, and the decision was made days before the convention assembled . . . Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is quietly holding a strong hand in the proceedings, but not much talk is emanating from that quarter . . . If "Elder Statesman" Hoover finds support from the Lodge-ites, do not be surprised . . . But the Willkie local strength is no mere smoke screen . . . He owns a majority of the Massachusetts delegation for later ballots as the convention goes into a third day . . . But unless most of the Massachusetts vote goes to Joe Martin on the first ballot at least, you may expect a bit of bitterness, if not an outright rift in the party harmony.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: A "hot potato" issue that disrupted the orderliness of the platform committee was that of immigration, we hear . . . The boys came out of the huddle with a decision to avoid the vote-losing subject for the time . . . The subject will not be neglected as the campaign progresses, our informants assure this corner . . . Madame Secretary Perkins, a leading liberal, is unlikely to enjoy the show of gallantry which—out of politics—her sex would win her . . . Meantime, with huge ads ornamenting the New York newspapers under the sponsorship of a new association, and with Boston papers and those of other key cities suddenly deluged with paid ads by other non-interventionist organizations, political side-liners were hearing that the Democrats were in a

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 26—When that grand old actor Maurice Moscovich died suddenly the other day he left RKO in a spot. Moscovich was playing a temperamental dance maestro in "Dance, Girl, Dance," and had already done four days' work. Naturally, his incompleted scenes had to be scrapped, and for the past week Director Dorothy Arzner, and Producer Erich Pommer have been trying frantically to find an actor to replace him. No one seems to fill the bill, so they've decided to solve the problem by making the character a woman—rewriting the role and handing it to Maria Ouspenskaya!

Since the part is an important one it will take considerable revamping. Meanwhile Miss Arzner continues shooting other sequences with Maureen O'Hara, Lucille Ball and Louis Hayward.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Even if Dick Watts did dash out here from New York to see her, Gene Tierney is still spending considerable time with Eddie Albert. They were at the Bubichki (other eve): Arleen Whelan and Alex D'Arcy, who split up after being very, very romantic, are dating again. They went to see "Our Town" together; Claudette Colbert has just received word from her aunt and uncle who live ten miles outside Paris that they are safe. It's her first news of them since France was invaded; Judy Garland, at the Casa Manana with Dave Rose, refused to be photographed with him, saying her heart was still with Bobby Stack; Bob, however, has been buying sandwiches at the Gotham for Esme O'Brien, Alice Faye is out of the hospital and convalescing at her Encino home; Gladys George and Leonard Penn, home from their Broadway stint in "Ladies In Waiting," supped at the House of Murphy; the entire Rathbone clan—Basil, Ouida and baby Cynthia—headed with flu.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

JOE REYNOLDS was a tough sailor. Two hitches he had put in, and always had been considered the toughest man in his destroyer division. He was surly and usually had the rest of the crew cowed by his quick tempered tactics. In any of the strawberry festivals, he had always walked off with the prize money, not for being a good boxer, but for having such a hard head and enduring chin.

Ashore he was the same way, surly till he had a few drinks, then boisterous till he managed to start a fight or finish one. Many were the bouncers from Boston to the West Coast who had felt the weight of his ready fists. Not always had Joe come out unscathed.

However, as he was wont to say, "There ain't no one can whip me, at least in this man's Navy."

IT WAS TRUE as far as anyone knew. No one as yet had rigged a single boom big enough to drop on him. All his losing fights had been due to superior numbers and not to superior fighting ability.

One day the destroyer King put into Boston for a short stay before she shoved off for Norfolk. As sailors do, Joe went ashore. He rolled up the lighted expanse of Chelsea street with love in his heart and no cares except where to get a good glass of beer. He sensed trouble when he saw a tiny seaman arguing with a girl and fellow on the corner. So Joe went up and declared his presence.

Wasn't the seaman a shipmate of his? Before he could properly go into action against the slightly smaller enemy he cleared the decks for action by taking off his hat and giving it to the seaman.

ONE SWING and it was all over. Two hits, one of a fist hitting Joe and another of Joe hitting the sidewalk. Joe sat up and shook the constellations out of his eyes. He felt the helping hand on his arm and looked through the fog to see that it was the man he had swung at and evidently missed.

"Let me give you a hand, sailor." He helped Joe to the unsteady upright position. "You ought to watch how you let that roundhouse go. You're wide open as a cargo hatch. And the next time don't pick on someone you don't know."

He handed Joe a newspaper clipping. It was a picture of a man in fighting togs and captioned: "LIGHT HEAVY TITLE CONTENDER IN BOSTON."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

YOU NEVER can tell what's really getting your goat, cramping your style, taking the joy out of life generally. That is, you never can tell until you've done a lot of probing; for the actual cause of our human misery is usually a million miles removed from its ultimate effect.

Take Dizzy Dean, f'instance. Remember Dizzy? Three years ago he was the Oomph Boy in American baseball. Today he's doing a lot of wishful thinking. And all because? All because someone handed Dizzy a wallop on his big toe!

What's a big toe got to do with a pitching arm? Nothing, thought Dizzy. Or practically nothing. But every time he stepped toward the batter that big toe hurt. So, to favor the toe, he eased up on his pitching technique. Not consciously, perhaps.

You know the rest, if you're a baseball fan.

WHY the burst of sympathy? Because each of us, in our own disregarded way, is as dismayed as Dizzy. Each of us has some kink in the elbow growing out of some pain in the toe. Not necessarily a physical pang, far more often some disregarded mental quirk which we never dream of associating with our major distresses.

Yet it's that forgotten or ignored quirk which is responsible for most of our human misery . . . that unhappy hangover from our childhood which still sidetracks our maturity.

Take, for example, that difficulty you have in meeting strangers. How often you've wished you were a good mixer in the office, a gracious hostess in the home. How often you've been penalized because you weren't! As Dizzy was penalized for the kink in his elbow, yet never dreamed of connecting it with his sore toe!

There's a sore toe in every human life—some secret handicap that holds us back, cramps our style, destroys our batting average. And most of us wonder helplessly what it's all about . . . and why/one these senseless, unreasonable blunders which beset our paths.

DON'T delude yourself! There's a reason for every mistake. Hidden deep in your heart, there's the demoralizing mark of some old hurt or humiliation, grief or fear which you've never shaken off. You think you have outlived that pang, but you haven't. As surely as a bruised toe finds outlet for its poison in an inflamed elbow, so surely the hurt heart expresses its misery in countless false gestures and erratic acts.

Cooking

A Nosebag Picnic

By MARTHA LEE

THE ADMITTEDLY lazy enjoy simple picnics. With a minimum of effort, easy-to-eat food arrives in easy-to-wash (or easy-to-throw-away) dishes. Hot food is hot, and cold food is cold. A "nosebag picnic" like this leaves plenty of time for lolling under shade trees and doing just nothing at all.

For energetic picnics—just muddy energetic—we suggest toasted cheese buns. A frankfurt inside each bun with the cheese makes pedigree hot dogs.

TOASTED CHEESE BUNS

6 long finger buns
¼ lb. cheese
6 strips bacon

Split buns. Spread with butter, if desired. Place thin slices of cheese between two halves. Wrap a strip of bacon around outside of sandwich and fasten securely with toothpicks. Toast slowly over fire until cheese is melted and bacon is cooked. Makes six hot sandwiches.

For a novelty and a wonderful picnic, make biscuits over the camp fire. Roll and cut them at home, pack them with waxed paper for separation in a covered can, and bake them slowly over the camp fire in a covered, lightly-greased skillet.

BISCUITS FOR PICNICS
(Mixed at home, baked over the campfire)

Mix biscuit dough, turn out on lightly floured board, knead gently, and roll out ¼-inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Place unbaked biscuits in baking powder can or other tightly-covered container, with waxed paper between the rounds. Keep in refrigerator until picnic time.

At the picnic: Melt a small amount of butter or bacon fat in skillet. Place biscuit rounds in skillet, cover tightly, and brown slowly on one side. (Do not let skillet become too hot.) Turn biscuits and brown other side. This should take 15 to 25 minutes.

While at home near the convenience of the kitchen range, bake meat loaf for sandwiches. It slices beautifully when cold; it makes pleasure-eating in a sandwich with butter, lettuce and salad dressing—with sliced pickles or sliced radishes, if you enjoy them. The spicy flavor of meat loaf comes from the catsup, onion and parsley it contains.

MEAT LOAF

1 lb. ground beef
½ lb. ground pork
½ lb. ground veal
2 cups soft bread cubes (3 slices)
1 beaten egg
½ cup catsup
2 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. chopped parsley, if desired
2 to 4 tbsp. finely chopped onion

Mix all ingredients together and blend thoroughly. Shape into loaf. Bake in loaf pan in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1 hour. Serve hot, or slice cold for sandwiches with lettuce and salad dressing.

Butterscotch nut sticks are chewy cookies, nice and moist for picnic eating.

BUTTERSCOTCH NUT STICKS

½ cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 cup chopped nut meats
½ tsp. vanilla

Melt shortening and add sugar. Blend thoroughly. When cooled, add beaten eggs and vanilla. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to sugar mixture. Mix in nuts. Spread in greased rectangular pan. (10x14 inches). Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Let cool in pan. Makes 42 cookies 1x3 inches.

Love

This Lucky Young Man

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I was engaged to a girl who lived about 200 miles from my home town. I went to see her as often as possible. She said she loved me and I loved her. We talked about marriage, but although I was making a fairly good salary at my job, I thought we ought to wait until I had a permanent position. She suggested coming here and getting a job, and with both of us working we could get along until I found something permanent.

I agreed, sent her railroad fare, paid for her room and board and was very devoted to her, doing without many things just to make her happy. But the day before we were to be married, she secured work in a local hotel, and then informed me she thought she was making a mistake in marrying me.

When we broke up I returned all the gifts she had given me. She asked me to come by and get those I had given her, but when I went, just because I wanted to see her, she gave me everything but an expensive watch I had given her. I wouldn't accept anything, and left immediately. Now I still love this girl, and can't get her out of my mind. Please be kind enough to advise me how to act toward her, because I do see her occasionally. BILLY

From everything you tell me about this girl, she seems lacking in those finer qualities which a woman must have to make a good life partner. Her gold-digging methods seem pretty professional to me.

After taking all that your generosity prompted, she went back on you the day before you were to be married.

Romance and Roses Inspire This Perfume

By ARLINE GOULD

ROMANCE and roses bloom in June . . . so what could be a better month in which to introduce a perfect new fragrance . . . "Rose"?

It's not only brides who stand in bowers of roses in June . . . there's the graduate, the five or ten-years-married, who still likes to get her tribute of red roses that tell of an unswerving love . . . and rose festivals are celebrated all over the country.

No matter what your dream of a beautiful rose is . . . whether it's the white bloom you tended until it burst into full flower one glorious morning . . . or it's the luxurious long-stemmed variety that you lifted from a big box on a day or evening of signal triumph . . . or the clump of wild roses that you unexpectedly came upon, sunning themselves in the crook of a stone wall's arm . . . you'll find its distillation in a brand new perfume.

It has just been added to a famous group of floral fragrances . . . and each one a little triumph in itself. You may have a "petit flacon" for your purse, containing a single dram, for $1.

Such a nice thought this would be as a gift for some young girl who is to graduate this month! There is a gift flacon, 2 drams for $1.85, that will make her feel glamorous and feted at this important time.

All the other floral fragrances in this "suite" are equal discoveries in romantic scents.

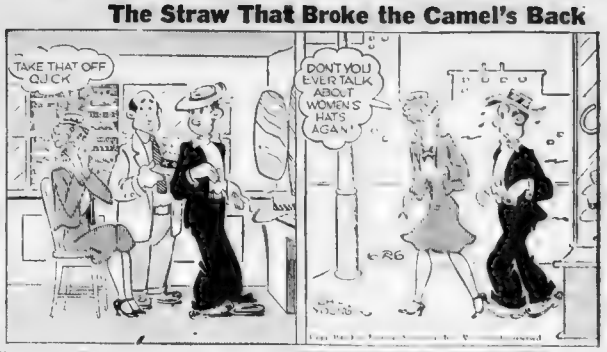
The Straw That Broke the Camel's Back



IN the old days, whenever Nancy or James Fielding were particularly discouraged, they used to sit very close together and plan their dream house.

Nancy would do the interior and the garden. James would have entire say about the site and the architecture. To this arrangement they were both solemnly pledged. There was never any argument about that. Strangely enough, James was usually the pessimistic one about its materialization.

"By the time we have enough money to buy it," he would say, "our family and friends will have one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel!"

When James left college to become an actor that was frowned upon in his town. But when he married the pert little daughter of the town music teacher and "dragged her" into the theater with him, he was considered a kind of menace.

The Fieldings formed their own vaudeville team. A singing and dancing act with jokes written by James—in collaboration with the quick-witted Nancy.

Until James started writing plays about people and situations familiar to him, the Fieldings had long, lean years of experience as a vaudeville team. And what was more, they had run the gamut of experience in life. There was the time the act was very popular. At its height, in fact. They were in London. Nancy danced as long, as painfully long as she could, while her costumes became tighter and tighter. She was expecting a baby. According to her calculations, they would have arrived home a month or so before her time.

But nearly at the cost of her life, she gave birth to a little premature son in their lodgings in London. The tiny boy lived but a few days. Nancy had never forgotten Jamesy's face. Thin and distraught it was, as he told her of his death.

After her recuperation, the Fieldings continued their act. When vaudeville passed, they were cast in musical comedies. James continued to write plays which were never produced. But Nancy's faith and encouragement kept him writing.

Never a night had they failed to say their prayers together. How often in the sticks, their room some dump on their one night stands, had they been too exhausted to get quite all the make-up off! She could still smell it. But even then, like cracked marionettes, they had always knelt, close together and said the "Our Father" before falling into bed.

ALWAYS TOGETHER

And Nancy would not have given up those days for anything in the world. Nothing mattered unless she shared it with Jamesy. Jokes, people, situations, the evening papers, all things concomitant with their life together.

James' funny crooked smile, the impulsive hugs he gave her, or his profound depressions, all the nuance of emotions, all were dear to her.

There had been occasional twinges of slight jealousy, but never any real cause. Never any real cause for it, until James' great success. After many years of work, success

JAMES FIELDING, successful actor and playwright, and

NANCY, his wife, have suffered during the climb to success, but have never abandoned their plans to build their own dream house.

Dream House

By Maureen Fleming

finally did arrive. There had been three fair hits. Three plays produced with merit. But finally the smash hit. A play about American life in a small New England town.

It was Nancy herself who "corralled" the star.

"No one but Sybil Carroll can play this part," insisted Nancy. James agreed with her. And Nancy signed her up for the role. She had made the greatest triumph of her career in the Fielding play.

Various friends hinted to Nancy that Sybil would attach herself to James. His fame and wealth would be irresistible. They warned Nancy that the sultry glamorous star would vamp her husband.

Nancy saw no signs of it. She knew that Sybil Carroll in her young animal beauty was splendid as an actress. Perfect in her role. But as a woman, she was definitely common and coarse.

Further than that, Jamesy was getting along in age now! They both were. And at long last, they had made a fortune. Their dream house was almost completed. A huge Georgian mansion, just where they had wanted it, in Vermont, their own old home town.

Soon it would be time for Nancy to start furnishing and decorating.

But just as the house was finished, Nancy's heart began to take the toll of years of hard work. The specialist recommended a complete rest for three months. He prescribed a cure out West in a sanitarium. She must get right away from the excitement. James insisted that she obey.

"We want to take every care now, Baby," he said. "We want to enjoy some of this hard-earned dough. We'll both take care of each other when you come back!"

James himself walked with a cane these days. He had arthritis and was supposed to be very careful of his diet.

THEIR OWN HOME

The three months' cure did wonders for Nancy. She felt a hundred per cent better, although she realized that in the future she would have to slow up a bit.

And when James met her at the station in New York, she looked like a little fashion plate. The very latest trick in a 1940 hat perched on her smartly coiffed head like a firecracker, just about to explode!

"I've got a wonderful surprise for you, Baby!" said James after the first greetings were over. "You'll see it when we arrive home."

Home! Not just the old home town, but their own home! Of course, they would stop at the Inn until she had finished the job of furnishing and decorating.

True, many of the family and friends had died or moved away. But dear ones were left. And plenty of nieces and nephews and cousins to be helped. She would have famous authors, artists of all kinds, visiting them. And the relatives would all be welcomed.

Their limousine drove up in front of the Georgian entrance of their new home! Nancy had expected to go straight to the Inn—until they were settled.

A splendid looking colored butler opened the door. Then, Nancy could not believe her eyes. The house was furnished!

"This is the surprise!" announced James.

"Who—who did this?" Nancy almost dared not ask. She looked James in the eye. "Who did this?" she repeated.

"Why—er—Sybil, Sybil Carroll. We knew you would not be strong enough, dear. Don't you like it?"

The saliva left her mouth. She sat down. Her dream house. It was Sybil's.

"Darling! Come upstairs. Wait till you see our quarters."

"I do not care to see the rest of the house," she said firmly.

It was finished for her. And the same old story. Man makes fortune. The other woman enjoys it. Wife who loved and helped him is left in the background. Spotlight on the siren. Applause.

"James," she said, her voice quivering, "this is not me—or you. It is Sybil."

Tears filled James' eyes. "Why Baby!" he cried. "I didn't know you'd feel that way. Let's give everything away and you do it in your own taste—if you're strong enough."

Their arms went around each other. No better proof than this was required. Nancy knew without a shadow of a doubt, he was really still her "Jamesy."

"We'll live at the Inn while you're at it, darling," he cried happily. "I'll fool around on a new play I'm doing. Play bridge with the boys at your club in the afternoon."

"Evenings we'll have our nice dinner together, maybe have a few friends in to talk and then read or listen to the radio" supplied Nancy. It was just what they both wanted.

NANCY GIVES ORDERS

Next morning, Nancy promised she would not overdo. She stepped into their car and resolutely ordered the chauffeur to take her to the house. Once inside the stately portal, she heaved a sigh, sat down and looked around.

Among other things on the table beside her was a telephone address book in tooled leather. Vaguely she opened it. Not many names. Most of them familiar. Then one, "Decorator." She looked at it again. From her bag she took her special reading glasses.

"Decorator," Jean La Ture. The address was on E. 58th st. New York. Nancy thought for a moment.

With an impish smile she dialed the telephone number.

"This is Jean La Ture'"

"But yes. Madame."

"Mr. La Ture," said Nancy, "I understand you have done the home of the famous playwright James Fielding."

"I mademoiselle Madame."

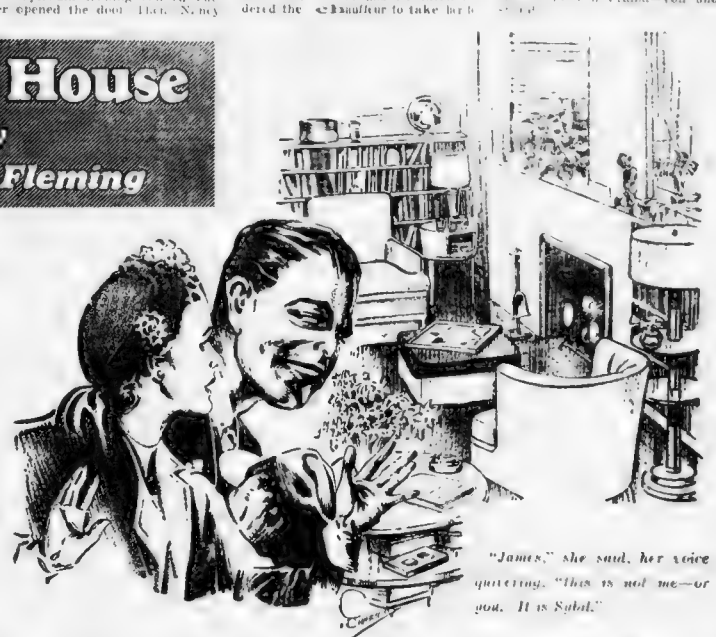
Within a few weeks the house was finished. Nancy was not in the least tired! She had appeared on the scene every day, made herself comfortable with a book, an occasional cigaret and an occasional suggestion to Mr. La Ture.

When James moved in, he declared it was much more lovely than he ever dreamed it could be.

"And it has just that personal homey touch that only my Nancy could give it!"

THE END

"James," she said, her voice quivering, "this is not me—or you. It is Sybil."



You'll enjoy tomorrow's dramatic story. The title is "Widow's Weapon."

Taylor Survives 2-Hour Operation

ROME June 26 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's representative at the Vatican, underwent an operation today which lasted two hours. His condition was described as satisfactory.

The operation was performed by Dr. Allan O. Whipple, New York surgeon, assisted by Prof. Raffaelo Bastianelli, one of Italy's most famous surgeons. The envoy became seriously ill while in Florence and was brought to Rome two days ago to Prof. Bastianelli's private clinic.

By JACK CONWAY

MAX BAER WILL try to prove he isn't a big bum when he clashes with Tony Galento, the Newark tavern keeper, in a bout at Jersey City on next Tuesday night.

It was Bill Brown, the solid man of the New York Athletic Commission, who first referred to Baer as a big bum.

Max Baer

Baer had knocked out Max Schmeling and Ernie Schaaf and was training at Asbury Park, N. J., for his world's championship battle with Primo Carnera. Max had displayed real title form in his winning contests with Schaaf and Schmeling. He had the speed, punch and courage that takes one to the top in the fistic game.

Once within striking distance of the championship Baer took a fancy to night clubs and the latest shows. He soon became a playboy.

Baer was in one of his playful moods when Bill Brown journeyed to his training camp to see him work out. Max wasn't quite certain whether he wished to box or clown. He managed to give an unsatisfactory exhibition of both.

"What do you think of Baer?" Hype Igoe asked Bill Brown.

"He's a big bum," shot back Brown.

The Commissioner's statement was flashed to newspapers all over the United States. It made a decided impression on the public, while it caused Baer to take his training more seriously.

Brown Enjoyed the Last Laugh

AS BAER battered Carnera into submission, he moved along the ropes close to where Brown was seated in his official capacity as a member of the New York Athletic Commission.

"So you said I was a big bum," said Baer mockingly as he sent Carnera reeling across the ring under the power of a right hand punch.

"You haven't shown me anything tonight to cause me to change my opinion," replied Brown.

Baer won the title, but a year later in the same ring Jimmy Braddock, coming up off a Jersey welfare roll, gave Max a boxing lesson and relieved him of his championship.

Baer didn't make any remarks to Bill Brown that night. He knew better than the Commissioner that he was a big bum as far as boxing was concerned.

Brown could be excused from chuckling a bit as he made his way through the crowd around the ringside.

I never could understand the Baer of the Braddock bout. Admitting that Max had violated many of the rules of training there was not any excuse for his complete collapse before Braddock's left hand.

As Baer came past the press row on his way to the ring, he was fearful of the kind of reception he would receive.

"I suppose the fans will boo me," Max said to Manger Ancil Hoffman.

By the end of the fifth round Baer was complaining about his hands. Braddock had given him a boxing lesson up to this point in the match, and Baer was anxious to build up an alibi.

There were charges after the bout that a group of gamblers had made a cleanup on Baer's defeat. I always doubted these reports as there was very little money wagered on the bout. The price of 10 to 1 on Baer caused most people to refuse to risk money on the champion. They figured he was a cinch to win, but the odds were too long.

Serious Baer to Battle Galento

IT WILL BE a serious Baer who will oppose Tony Galento in the Jersey ring. Max is married, has a baby, and is the ideal family man. Max is anxious to make the best possible showing so that he can make more money for his family and himself, and also re-establish himself with the public.

"I wish Max were as serious when he was champion," Ancil Hoffman said to me recently. "If he had been, he would have licked Braddock and then knocked out Joe Louis."

Hoffman knows that Baer has passed his peak as a fighter, but hopes that the former champion will get another crack at Louis' title.

If Baer were to knock out Galento, he would make a better drawing card against Louis than any other heavyweight.

If there is another Louis-Baer bout, it will probably go to Detroit where it would draw $400,000. Business is good in Detroit with the automobile industry having its best year since 1929, and the defense program getting off to a start in the automobile city.

Fat Tony Galento may halt the Baer comeback with one of his ponderous punches. Tony is far from being a great heavyweight, but he can still hit, while he has more than his share of courage when under fire in the ring.

RED SOX CAN THANK HASH FOR FIRST DIVISION SPOT

By JOE CASHMAN

DETROIT, June 26—Consigned to the second division in pre-season predictions, Detroit's Tigers are in second place, while our Red Sox, second choice in the winter books, are in third place as another intersectional series comes to a close today.

There's probably more than one reason why the Bengals, who finished fifth last year, are running ahead of the Fenway flock, which grabbed off the runner-up berth in '39, but the principal one is [illegible] Feller has come up with [illegible] as many successful young pitchers as has Joe Cronin.

Pitching was supposed to be the Bengals chief weakness. It hasn't been because Hal Newhouser, a 19-year old southpaw and Johnny Gorsica, a 22-year old right-hander, have proved two of the outstanding freshman flinging "finds" of the campaign to date.

SOX HAVE ONLY HASH

And to match these two tyros, the Sox can offer only the 26-year-old Herbie Hash.

The Sox have lost four times in eight starts against the Tigers, thus far, and three of those defeats have been administered by Messrs. Newhouser and Gorsica.

Newhouser blanked our heroes for eight innings as he subdued them on the Tigers last visit to Boston. On that occasion Joe Cronin opined that this infant portsider, who is still a student in a local high school, looked like the best pitching prospect to break into the loop since Bob Feller came up.

Yesterday the Sox had their second peek at Child Harold and he looked better than that.

HUBUS FOUR-HITTER

Going to the mound in the night cap after the Sox had taken the opener of the doubleheader, 11 to 7, back of Jack Wilson, the kid had to win to keep his mates in second place.

Under that pressure, he hurled a four-hitter to breeze, 5 to 1. He struck out seven, including the side in the fifth frame, when a storm threatened to wash out the game before it could become official. Watching him handcuff the heaviest-hitting team in the majors with his blinding speed and explosive curve, you'd have thought he could have struck out the side every inning had it been necessary.

Which brings us to today and Georgia.

This product of Chicago sandlots also mesmerized the Sox on his last appearance at the Fens to give the Detroiters a clean sweep of a two-game series. Now he's coming back this p m against Jim Bagby, to try to win the rubber of the current engagement.

HOME IN THIRD PLACE

Regardless of the outcome, the Sox will be forced to label this second trip through the wide open spaces a failure.

They left home in first place. They'll start back for Boston tonight in third place, even if they win.

They'll also be under the .500 mark for the trip having dropped

Frick to Move For Batters' Helmets in N. L.

NEW YORK, June 26 (INS) — That the major leagues will soon raid the pantry for pots to equip players' domes appeared probable today when National League Prexident Ford Frick went on record as favoring helmets to protect batters from destructive bean balls.

"I'm going to raise the matter of helmets at our league meeting at the time of the all-star game July 9 in St. Louis," said the senior loop's chief executive.

PLAYERS OBJECT

"I haven't talked to the club owners about helmets, but I have spoken to the players and, in general, they object. They say it's silly and point out that beaning, while spectacular, provides only the smallest percentage of accidents on the field. You could buy helmets and hang them up in the dugout, but I'm sure few players would use them unless we could get joint action by the leagues making it a regulation."

Considering the devastation wrought by skulling this campaign in the National League, the childish bravado of the performers is amazing. Billy Jurges of the Giants hospitalized by a Bucky Walter fast ball Sunday, bit the dust a few days after Brooklyn's Joe Medwick was felled when one of Bob Bowman's heaves went away. Earlier in the year the Dodgers Peewee Reese was victimized by Jake Mooty's bad aim.

B's, Reds Idle 3d Day in Row

Today's doubleheader between the Bees and the Cincinnati Reds was called off because of rain shortly before noon today. It was the third successive day that inclement weather had prevented the clubs from meeting here.

Both clubs will be idle tomorrow. The Bees will stay in town, hoping to get in a much-needed workout at National League field. They will open in Brooklyn Friday as the Red Sox return home for a long stay.

The Reds, too, will be idle tomorrow. They will be at home Friday for a series with the Chicago Cubs.

eight out of 14 decisions on the trails up to this writing.

The pitchers haven't been entirely to blame for the slump, but there might not have been any slump if the club had the same success in bolstering its staff as have had the two rivals above it in the race.

Newhouser and Gorsica have made the Tigers serious contenders.

The pace-setting Indians have come up with no freshmen wonders, but Al Milnar, their sophomore southpaw, has an 11-2 slate and Al "Lefty" Smith, a National League cast-off brought back from the minors last winter, boasts of a 8-1 record.

The Sox have received plenty of help from Hash. In fact, Herbie is our lading pitcher and the only member of the corps to turn in as many as six victories.

Without him, the Hose might be struggling to stay out of the second division.

But he's only one against two new regulars on the Indians' and Tigers' staffs.

So the Indians are on top, the Tigers are second and the Sox are third.

Failure to find and develop promising young pitchers has long been the glaring weakness of Sox scouts and farm managers.

The club hasn't come up with a young ace since Joe Cronin became manager.

RICH STARTED FAST

Jim Bagby appeared as though he might qualify two years ago, but he dropped back to the bushes last season and is now meeting with but ordinary success in a comeback attempt.

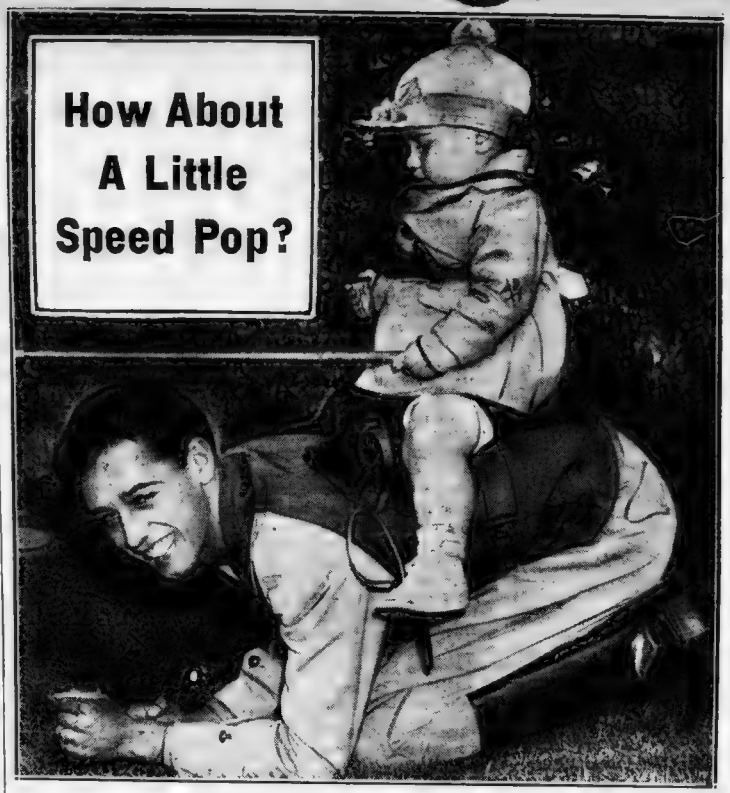
Wood Rich looked like a world beater during the first month of '39. Then he came up with a sore arm and is now back in Class A.

Emerson Dickman has been a big help as a relief artist but has never clicked as a starter. Charlie Wagner, winner of 20 games in Double A before making his big league bow, has been of little help. Bill Butland, winner of 19 games at Minneapolis last year, failed to come up to expectations this spring and then got a lame arm.

Herb Hash gives every sign of establishing himself as an outstanding flinger.

But, assuming he does so, he'll be only one in six years.

A club must come up with new pitching phenoms much faster than that to be a flag factor.



GETTING HORSE'S VIEWPOINT—Maybe Jockey Joey Rosen appreciates the horse's angle better after these sessions, when he has to ride son Clyde, 18 months young, by the hour. But the course is flat, the jockey doesn't really use the whip and the racer likes the going. What more could a thoroughbred ask?

position to get a line on the source of funds held by some of these groups.

THE HOPE PRESS-AGENT, Mack Millar, checked-in a pair of days ahead of his actors, and adjourned to the Wyner hostelry to make arrangements—and for a rest from laughing at Mr. Hope . . . And this leads to a report of a conversation between the two.

"ONE THING, BOB," was the way Mr. Millar twitted his boss, "you'll never be able, with all your luck, to get .. to be president of the United States" . . . Mr. Hope, forgetting his political economies for the moment, inquired sharpy: "Why not?" . . . "Why? Because you were born in Easth'm, Kent, England."

"SURE ENOUGH!" admitted Mr. Hope, a trifle discomfited at his momentary aberration. "But I don't think I'd be interested anyway . . . Not unless I could have a percentage arrangement."

Medal Honors Won by Burke

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 26 (AP)—Johnny Burke of Georgetown, youngest member of a Newport, R. I., golfing family, rushed under the wire with the late finishers in the qualifying round of the National Collegiate A. A. championship here to gain the medalist honors with a 36-hole total of 143.

Burke, who won the intercollegiate championship two years ago and the Metropolitan amateur only last week, topped his opening 71, one over par for this 6565-yard Green Mountain course, with a 72 to lead 145 representatives of 30 odd colleges.

Pruning Newport Johnny, who finished in a second-place tie at the end of yesterday's opening round, were Bert McDowell, Louisiana State, finalist with him in 1938, and Harry Haverstick, Swarthmore. Each had 144, Haverstick with the tourney's first subpar round, a one-under 69.

Star Dust

HAL TROSKY, Indians—Hit his 16th and 17th home runs of year to lead Cleveland to 5-3 victory over Yankees.

JIM TABOR, Red Sox, and HAL NEWHOUSER, Tigers—Former got four hits and batted in four runs to point way to first-game triumph and latter pitched four-hit ball and fanned seven to take nightcap of double-header.

BOB ELLIOTT, Pirates—His two doubles and single topped Pittsburgh's 15-hit attack on Phillies.

DOM DALLESANDRO, Cubs—Hit triple, two doubles and single to get Cubs' 13-inning decision over Dodgers.

JOHN BERARDINO, Browns—Drove in six runs with triple and two singles to help beat Athletics, 12-10.

BUDDY MYER, Senators—Paced 15-hit assault on White Sox with double and two singles.

Smith Wins Mass. Title

By BILL GRIMES

For the first time since he won the North and South open at Pinehurst three years ago, Horton Smith is the possessor of the title. The Joplin Ghost topped a field of 80 contenders and won the 34th Massachusetts open championship yesterday afternoon at the Oyster Harbors Club.

The Bay State open was played under very adverse conditions. The weather was abominable. During the first round a strong north east wind swept across the course and the players were also handicapped by intermittent showers. And, in the afternoon, the rain fell in torrents at times as it did all day yesterday.

TIED COURSE RECORD

Yet, because of the excellent condition of the course, thanks to the efficiency and the untiring efforts of Mike McDonough, the greenskeeper, Horton Smith tied the record for Mass. open championships held at Oyster Harbors.

Four years ago Harold McSpaden was "imported" by the Winchester Country Club and won the Mass. open championship at the Oak Hill Country Club. Because of the absence of any outstanding "import" McSpaden was successful in the defense of his state open title for two years. But, a year ago, Byron Nelson played in the Mass. open at Worcester shortly after winning the U. S. open title, and took over McSpaden's title.

When the entries for the 34th Mass. open championship were announced last week, among the contenders were two "imports," Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson, both of whom registered from Chicopee, Mass., which is the locale of the A. G Spalding Bros. factory.

CAME FROM BEHIND

At the end of the first round, Horton Smith was in fourth place and four strokes behind Edmund Burke, Wianno, and trailed McSpaden by three shots. During the second round Smith moved up into a second place tie with McSpaden and was only two strokes behind Burke. Then, when he started the fourth and final round, Smith was deadlocked with McSpaden for the lead with 217.

Despite the fact that he missed putts of less than a foot on the ninth and tenth greens, Horton Smith was four strokes up on McSpaden at the turn, for the Winchester pro used up 39 strokes to get through the front nine against his 35. McSpaden slipped so rapidly during the final test that Gene Andersen, who was five strokes in arrears with but 18 holes to play, caught at the tenth and took second money.

Five of the last nine Mass. open championships have been played at Oyster Harbors.

WIDEST VICTORY MARGIN

And, by a strange coincidence, on no less than three occasions, the winners' 72 hole totals have been 287. In 1932- Francis Ouimet took over the Bay State crown with a 287, nipping Herman Barron by one stroke. Two years later, Roy Brondsdon, now the professional at Pine Burn but at that time the pro at Oyster Harbors, captured the title with a 287. And, yesterday, Horton Smith's 287 give him a victory by the widest margin the title has ever been won at Oyster Harbors, four strokes over Gene Andersen, who, incidentally, has been the runner up in three state opens at Oyster Harbors.

Horton Smith left for Washington, Conn., last night with $400 and a host of new and staunch friends, while Gene Andersen was richer by $200 and McSpaden drew down $150 for third money.

Then came Tony Manero, Salem, one of the best liked professionals in New England, for $100, and Jimmy Thomson, who posted a disastrous 79 for his first round, Edmund Burke, who paced the field for 36 holes and Dave Hackney, Vesper, divided fifth, sixth and seventh money.

Ted Bishop, Woodland, was the low amateur with 301.

TRAINING SHRINKS GALENTO 30 POUNDS

SUMMIT, N. J., June 26 (AP)—Tony Galento, at 240 pounds, is a mere shadow of his former self. And every inch of his 42-inch circumference bristles with a grudge.

The grudge is against Madcap Maxie Baer. And if you've never seen One-and-a-half Tom's waistline bristling, you really should come up and see him some time.

Tony tangles with Madcap Maxie in the Jersey City ball park next Tuesday for 15 rounds or less.

HOME-MADE GRUDGE

It seems the keg-shaped gent from Jersey hasn't felt the same about Maxie ever since he, himself, took all of Joe Louis' Sunday stuff last June and then recalled that Baer had been accused of "quitting" to the Brown Bomber back there five years ago.

"Imagine any bum quittin' to Louis," he shouted. "And imagine dat bum of all of dem doin' it."

So Tony collected himself a home-made grudge because of it. Now, some cynics may say this is only part of the buildup for the fight, but no one, to date, has ever accused the roly-poly one of being that subtle.

ADVISED AGAINST BOUT

He took the Baer bout against the best judgment of his advisers. Joe Jacobs, before he died, advised against it. Since Joe and his big cigar left, Herman Taylor and Harry Mendel, carrying on for him argued the same thing.

They pointed out the match could mean nothing to Tony. They showed him that by his stand against Louis last year he was a cinch to get the title shot anyway, especially since the available challengers might just as well "stood in bed." Still, Tony insisted on the Baer thing.

"I gotta bet dat bum out," said the man with a purpose. "And," he added today, "I'll do it in t'ree rounds, too."

STILL ON BEER DIET

So Tony is getting into some kind of shape for Tuesday's fight. Don't be alarmed, now—he's still on a beer diet. He's imbibing more if anything, of the brew, his handlers tell you. But, despite this intake, he has shed 30 pounds since he started training. What's more, he has actually taken an inch from around his middle, which is a major operation.

As for the fight with Baer, he may fool a lot of folks by trying to bring down the playboy belter with his right hand. Up to now, Tony has used his left to land all the way from Coney Island and beyond. Added against his rivals in his training bets he's been using it from a stein lifting side.

Scores Birdie on Court

LEXINGTON, N. C., June 26 (AP)—S. G. Welborn, a Davidson College student, scored a birdie—in a tennis match.

Just as he served a sizzler the bird dipped low over the court and was knocked dead by the ball.

Connecticut Aces Enter N. H. Races

KEENE N H June 26 Five top drivers from Connecticut will race in the 10-mile classic for big cars at the Stafford Park Speedway this Sunday afternoon.

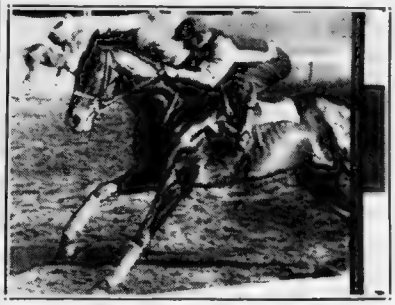
Joe Grant of Milford, George Bouley and Bud Hardt of Waterbury, Chet Conklin of Danbury and Ted Hayley of New Britain make up the Nutmeg State drivers.

Bouley claims the dirt track championship of the State, as he is the third champion to the field and already in the grind. Doc Freedlicks of Amsterdam N Y., holds the Empire State title and Bill Gardner of Cohasset Mass is champion of the Bay State.

Champions of the Turf at
SUFFOLK DOWNS

BIMELECH,
America's top three-year-old, winner of the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, is at Suffolk Downs. His next stake nomination is the Yankee Handicap, July 4. BIMELECH, owned by Col. Edward R. Bradley and trained by William Hurley, tells his own story—

"This home stretch is familiar. I won my first race here."



"It's fun to run at Suffolk Downs."

"When you see me, I'll look like this with Freddy Smith up. Freddy has ridden me in every one of my 12 starts. We have won ten, placed second twice, and have earned $241,095 for Colonel Bradley."

"M-m-m, this water tastes good."

"Speaking of Champions—Challedon Sea Biscuit, War Admiral, Discovery, Kayak II, Fighting Fox, Top Row and Mercw have won at Suffolk Downs."

Suffolk Downs presents the $5000 Myles Standish Stakes next Saturday!

Climb Tree for Shot

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., June 26—E. A. Torrant, Wethersfield golfer, literally went up in the air on a shot in the state amateur golf championship. Tied with his opponent after 19 holes, Torrant saw his 150-yard drive land in a tree 20 feet from the ground. He got a ladder and managed to play the shot, but the ball flopped be'ind the tree and he lost hole and match.

BALANCE OF BATTING POWER ACCOUNTABLE FOR BROWNS' RISE

ST. LOUIS, June 26 (AP) — There's a stranger in the American League's first division today.

The St. Louis Browns are looking down from fourth place and the New York Yankees are looking up at them.

The Brownies reached this lofty perch with a 12 to 10 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics last night after the world champions had dropped a daytime decision to Cleveland, 5-3.

It's the first time in six years the Missourians have stood so high at this stage of the race, and only last year the team finished a dismal eighth.

FANS RALLY TO CAUSE

Now the fans are climbing aboard the Browns' bandwagon, clicking the turnstiles at unfamiliar figures and asking:

"What's caused all this?"

George Sisler, one-time Brownie star, who is rated by many modern observers as one of the all-time greats, says:

"It's a matter of balance. There was power on the club before, but when you'd get past two or three men, there'd be a lull in the attack.

"Now the club has power all the way down the batting order. That's what makes a ball club dangerous. It's better to have a string of batters with modest averages than to have two or three with marks above .400.

HANEY USES MAGIC WAND

"Fred Haney is taking full advantage of the club's strength, too, by switching outfielders against opposing pitchers. Yes, the Browns are a good ball club now."

Another factor in their upward surge, which has brought 14 victories in the last 20 starts, are home runs. The team is leading both leagues in circuit clouts with a total of 56.

Heroes and Goats

By International News Service

HEROES—Hal Newhouser, Tigers, whose four-hit pitching gave his team an even break with the Red Sox; Hal Trosky, Indians, whose two homers beat the Yanks.

GOATS—Kirby Higbee, Phillies, who was socked for six runs in one inning by the Pirates; Hal Pearson, Yanks, who lasted only three innings against Indians.

REPORT TWO-TON O. K.

SUMMIT, N. J., June 26 (INS)—Tony Galento was pronounced physically fit tonight for his 15-round bout against Max Baer in Jersey City next Tuesday night. Dr. Louis Dodson conducted the examination ordered by State Boxing Commissioner Abe Greene.

Wilson, Keats Hit 4 More

Muddy racing conditions which prevailed yesterday at Suffolk and Aqueduct failed to prove a handicap to Dave Wilson and Fred Keats, whose ratings appear daily in the Green Racing Special at their respective tracks, with both experts selecting four winners.

Fred Keats

Dave Wilson

Dave lost the double at the East Boston strip by a nose, when his top choice, Glenbroom, just missed getting up in time to beat St. Moritz, which was his second choice. However, he came up with the winners of the second and third heats in Whiskolo, $3.80, and Knight's Sox, $4.60. He missed the fourth, but came up with the winners in the fifth and sixth events, when Madison, $6.20, and Gold Mash $3.10, simply rollicked to victory.

Gold Mesh was also his code choice in the Bird Cage Special.

Fred dropped the first two stanzas, but clicked in the following the card at Aqueduct, batted .666 when four of his top choices scored in the seven-race card.

Fred droped the first two stanzas, but clicked in the following three heats as Key Ring, $3.40, In Charge, $6, and Bolingbroke, $8.70, scored in impressive fashion. He wound up the day when Russia, his long shot special, accounted for the nightcap and returned $7.90.

SO THIS IS BOSTON—Bucky Walters, great Reds pitcher, gets a line on Hub sports as he whiles long hours of an off day. Bucky is an all-around sports fan, but his absorbing passion just now is to win and win and win for the Reds. He wants another World Series chance this fall.

M'KECHNIE SCOFFS AT CARDS AS THREAT IN FLAG BATTLE

By SAM BROGNA

Take it from Bill McKechnie, head man of the Cincinnati Reds, currently the No. 1 team of the National League with a slight edge of two games over Brooklyn's daffy-dill Dodgers, it's going to be a up and tuck battle for the National League crown right through the season.

"Yes, sir," the wily Scotchman and head spokesman of the visiting team said with Hank Gowdy, his chief coach who was standing by nodding his approval, "the tight race now being waged will, no doubt, continue right up to the closing stages of the race in September."

Mr. McKechnie, being on the talkative side and very willing to voice his opinion just so far as the race is concerned, "nothing else," made the above statement as he and members of his championship team were loitering around the lobby of their downtown hotel trying to "kill" time for the second straight day because rain and cold weather forced National League officials to again put out the "No Game' sign between his Reds and the Boston Bees.

CAN SEE ONLY FOUR CLUBS

Picking up where he left off, McKechnie went on to say: "You can see for yourself the stiff battle that has been taking place since the season got underway has not let up one bit. It was just between the Dodgers and my club then but now, the Giants and Cubs have come along very strong and as it looks now, it's a four-team fight."

How about the Cards or Pirates? Do you suppose they have a chance?

Without hesitating, he replied, "If you are going to include these two clubs with the top four, you also must include the Bees and Philadelphia. But, I don't see how any of these clubs stand a ghost of a chance of overcoming the big gap already made.

"True, all of them have shown a lot of improvement but not enough to warrant them a rating for the pennant."

Will was then floored for the count when we softly asked: "What club do you think is the one to beat, Bill?"

This is where the "Nothing else" comes in as the venerable manager of last year's National League winners bluntly refused to answer. He didn't want to be a marked man some two months hence if the club he named today failed to live up to his expectations. But he did have this to say.

"I'll be able to answer that sometime in August but as for now, nothing doing."

But, we were pretty well satisfied a few minutes later when we encountered Bucky Walters, the No. 1 pitcher of the National League. He was able to fulfill my assignment.

He started off by saying, "The Dodgers are going to be tough to beat. So are the Giants and even the Cubs" (ed. note—the same as his manager stated and it was said without the other knowing it) "but the team to beat is us."

LAUDS MIKE McCORMICK

With this, the man who holds nine decisions over his rivals already this year, strolled off to join his mates.

McKechnie also had a good word to say for Myron "Mike" McCormick, his prize outfield rookie, who is now playing right field in place of the injured Ival Goodman.

Since joining the Reds this spring, McCormick has played every position in the outer garden, and played them well.

"And when a player can play any field he's a ball player," said McKechnie.

Only 23 years of age, Mike has played seven years of organized ball. He started while attending the Stockton High School in California, which is still his home town, seven years ago.

MADE FREE AGENT

This is his first fling at major league ball although he had a short workout with the Cleveland Indians in 1938. Following his, he was made a free agent by Judge Landis and immediately joined Indianapolis, where he played two seasons before the Cincy Reds discovered him.

He batted .318 last year. His best minor league year was in 1935 when he hit .344 for Butler of the then Penn State League. He also played for New Orleans and Buffalo.

McCormick finds practically no difference between major league pitching and minor league hurling.

"The only thing is, these fellows can pick the corners better," he said.

Red Sox Refuse Two Night Tilts

ST. LOUIS, June 26 (AP)—The Browns, authorized to double the limit of seven night games, announced today the Boston Red Sox had refused to play twice under the lights and, instead, the Philadelphia Athletics would make three night appearances here.

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—The All-England lawn tennis tournament, which was scheduled to be held at Wimbledon July 19 and 20, was cancelled today. The tournamene normally draws the world's greatest players.

1940 All-Star Teams Lack Batting Punch

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—The batting averages—old and new—prove it's a good bet that the teams which meet in the eighth annual major league All-Star baseball game at St. Louis next month won't even faintly resemble, in personnel, the teams which fought it out last year at New York.

Excluding pitchers, the eight players who gave the American League a 3-to-1 victory last year entered that game with a collective plate average of .325. The current mark of those same players is .278. The National League team average before that game, .315, now has become .284.

Joe DiMaggio of New York's Yankees entered the 1939 game with a .435 average. He's now hitting .296. Other comparisons: Joe Cronin, Boston, .287 and .221; Red Rolfe, Yankees .317 and .241; Bill Dickey, Yankees, .328 and .228; Joe Gordon, Yankees, .311 and .250. The big contrasts among the National Leaguers: Lon Frey, Cincinnati, .307 and .259; Ival Goodman, Cincinnati, .326 and .229; Mel Ott, New York, .328 and .263; Joe Medwick, Dodgers (with St. Louis last year), .330 and .295 (through June 24).

Several gridiron coaches chinning at the recent N. C. A. A. track meet in Minneapolis, said it might be only a matter of time before the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day becomes strictly a Pacific Coast Conference-Big Ten proposition.

Sullivan Triples; Missed Other Chance

Dan J. Sullivan, the Texas oil man who won three of the eight races at Delaware Park Monday, just missed a triple once before. His horses were first home in three races one day at Havre de Grace but one of them was disqualified.

Commission Okays N. Y. Autumn Dates

Dates for the four autumn race meetings in New York's metropolitan area have been approved by the State Racing Commission. Aqueduct has been assigned 12 days from Sept. 2 to 21; Belmont 12 days, Sept. 23-Oct. 5; Jamaica 12 days, Oct. 7-19, and Empire City 12 days, Oct. 21-Nov. 2.

In addition three hunts meetings have been approved: The Meadowbrook Steeplechase Sept. 28, West Hills Hunts Nov. 2 and United Hunts at Belmont Park Nov. 5 and 9.

Mrs. Lewis Leads Aqueduct Owners

Statistics for the first two weeks of the Aqueduct meeting show Mrs. E. Graham Lewis was leading owner, winning $13,225, just $50 more than Arnold Hanger. Basil James topped the jockeys with 12 winners and Trainers Jim Fitzsimmons, Clarence Buxton and Andy Schuttinger each saddled five winners.

Cubs Belt Dodgers in 13th

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1940 31

BROOKLYN, June 26 (AP)—Chicago's Cinderella Cubs esampered off Ebbets Field with five runs just a sthe clock struck midnight last night to take an 8 to 3 13-inning victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Cubs spoiled Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin's return to a Dodger uniform by knocking him out in the sixth inning. But Brooklyn battled back to tie the score in the ninth on Babe Phelps' fifth homer of the season and then the clubs struggled fruitlessly until the Dodgers blew up in the unlucky thirteenth.

Chunky Dominic Dallessandro played a major role in Chicago's conquest, getting four hits including a triple and two doubles.

In the final inning after Bill Nicholson led off with a walk, Dallessandro drove him to third with a single and the important run crossed the plate when Pete Coscarart's throw home on Phil Cavarretta's grounder was too late.

Al Todd singled another run across and after Bob Mattick fouled out, Pitcher Claude Passeau beat out a bunt and Dolph Camilli threw the ball into right field, letting two more runs score and Passeau reached third from where he too scored on a fly.

Passeau, third Chicago pitcher, checked the Dodgers without a hit in the four extra innings to get credit for the victory. The defeat was charged to Newt Kimball, last of four Dodger pitchers to see service.

ST. LOUIS, June 26 (INS)—The amazing St. Louis Browns overcame an eight-run deficit last night to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 12 to 10, with a surge in the late innings.

Trailing 8-0 going into the end of the sixth, the Browns unleashed an assault which scored four runs in that inning, three more in the seventh and five in the eighth, while the A's were held in check.

CHICAGO, June 26 (INS)—Sid Hudson, young Washington right hander, baffled the Chicago White Sox under the lights last night to turn in a 7 to 6 victory before 21,-233 fans.

While Hudson was checking the Sox with 9 hits, the Senators bunched four hits in the fourth and five in sixth to score two and three runs respectively. John Rigney started for the Sox and gave up ten hits in his six inning stay.

The winning Senator margin came in the eighth when the Nats coupled two hits with two errors to score two runs.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (INS)—A six-run rally in the seventh inning brought the Pirates a 9 to 7 victory over Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh made 15 hits off Kirby Higbe and Si Johnson, while the Phillies collected 14 off Max Butcher, Johnny Lanning and Bob Klinger, including a homer by Johnny Rizzo with two on base in the seventh. Lanning was the winning pitcher, while Higbe was charged with the defeat.

CLEVELAND, June 26 (INS)—Hal Trosky clouted his 16th and 17th home runs and Roy Weatherly also homered as Cleveland trimmed the Yankees, 5 to 3, in a game cut short by rain after five innings. New York scored all its runs in the third when Crosetti doubled, Rolfe walked, Keller tripled and DiMaggio singled.

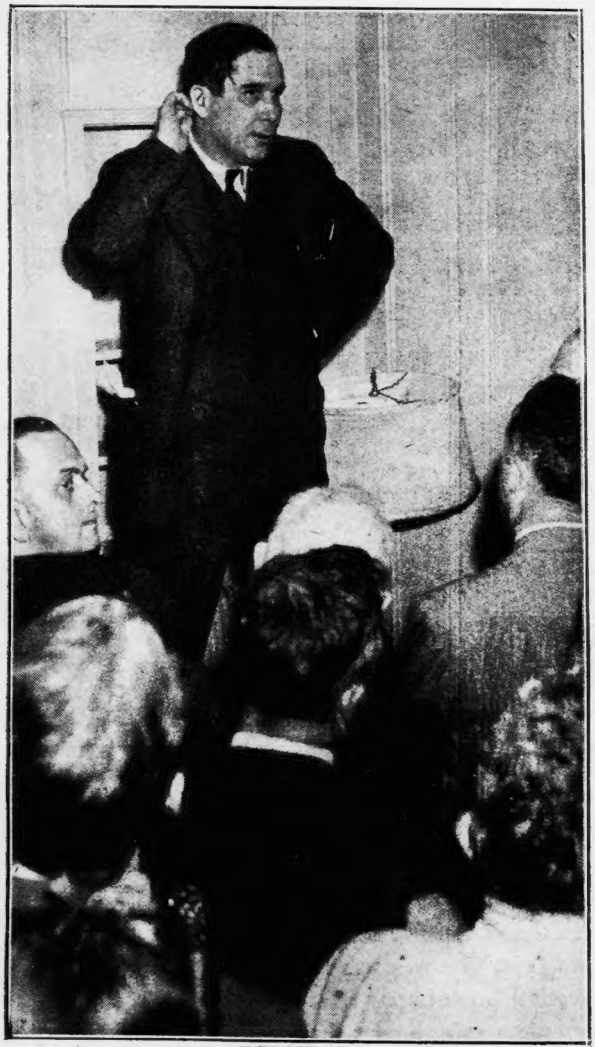
RAIN FAIR SHOWERS CLOUDY



Is He Stopped?—Standing on a chair in his Philadelphia headquarters, Utilities Magnate Wendell Willkie, possible Republican nominee, addresses delegates. As session opened today, a move to draft Taft and Dewey spread . . . a movement from the unbossed delegates who are dead-set against the nomination of Willkie.

'Luck'

With a hearty handshake, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight ring champ, extends wish of good luck to Thomas E. Dewey at convention.

Chance?
